Restraining Order Hits Mass Picketing

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster District Judge Samuel Van Pelt Tuesday issued an order temporarily restraining mass picketing at the Square D Co. and set Thursday for hearing on an injunction sought by Square D in a suit filed Tuesday in Lancaster District Court.

In an action against International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO 1536, and its agents and members, Square D alleges that the defendants have violated the mass picketing provisions of the statutes and unless restrained and enjoined the plaintiff company will suffer substantial and irreparable damage.

According to the petition, on Jan. 25 the defendants commenced a work stoppage and strike of employees of the plaintiff, and on Monday one of the union agents and about seven members of the local picketed at the north entrance of the plaintiff's plant "within far less than 50 feet of the entrance."

The plaintiff alleges that on Tuesday morning, members of the union local "massed" at the west entrance of the plant and stationed themselves in the immediate vicinity of the entrance.

Square D contends that members of the defendant local have repeatedly blocked ingress at the entrance, physically pounded on motor vehicles, shouted profane and threatening language at motorists and otherwise threatened, coerced and intimidated employees' attempts to enter the plaintiff's premises.

According to the petition, at about 7 a.m. Tuesday, 48 members of the union local "massed" at the north entrance and stationed themselves in the immediate vicinity of the entrance to the sole remaining employee parking lot.

The members of the union, according to the plaintiff, parked motor vehicles in the immediate vicinity of the driveway access points to the premises "in such a way as to impede ingress and egress of vehicles" and in such a way to block clear view of drivers of motor vehicles thus creating a hazard.

The plaintiff contends that the defendants parked about 76 motor vehicles on a posted "No Parking" area in violation of city ordinance and of a special permit granted by the mayor.

Square D alleges that the actions of the defendants constitute unlawful and intentional interference of the legal right of access to and from the plaintiff's plant.

The plaintiff further alleges that, unless restrained, the defendants will continue to interfere with and prevent employees and other persons from moving to and from their respective place of employment, from engaging in lawful business with the plaintiff and from entering upon the plant premises.

Women Jailed In Local Strike

Seventeen women were jailed late Tuesday afternoon after eggs were allegedly thrown at cars near the scene of picket lines at the Square D Co. plant in the Lincoln South Industrial Park.

The arrests took place after police, who were at the location before 4 p.m., had succeeded in dispersing a chain of cars driving in front of the entrances to the plant and had dispersed a group which gathered after the driving stopped.

The line of autos, apparently driven by strikers, began moving shortly before 4 p.m. in a circular path that took them past the west entrance to the parking lot and through a road leading to Hwy. 77 from the north entrance to the plant's parking lot.

After about 15 to 20 minutes of circling the drivers were ordered to stop by police. Many of the drivers then parked their cars and walked to the west entrance of the parking lot.

Police ordered the strikers to disperse after about 15 to 30 had gathered, but few complied with the order.

Police then called a patrol wagon to the scene. When it arrived about 10 minutes later the strikers, some running, returned to their cars.

Several minutes later, while most of the strikers were leaving the industrial park, police reportedly observed eggs being thrown at cars near 19th and Center Park Rd. in the industrial park. Two groups of women were arrested.

Dangerous Gas Leak Is Cut Off

Augusta, Kan. (AP) — Emergency crews cut off a potentially deadly gas flow within about 30 minutes Tuesday, allowing west side residents of Augusta to return to their homes.

A high pressure pipeline at the Mobil Oil Co. refinery ruptured Tuesday about two-thirds of the way up a high acid tower in the alkali plant of the refinery. The escaping gas was described as a highly toxic and explosive combination of propane and light alkali.

Authorities evacuated an area containing about one-third of the town's homes and businesses, west of State Street, the main north-south thoroughfare. There was no official estimate, but several hundred persons were believed involved in the evacuation.

Pockets of gas were reported in some low-lying areas several hours after the incident.

Augusta is 20 miles east of Wichita. It has a population of about 6,000.

Gain Is Highest In Years

... Butz Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said Tuesday that the cost of eating jumped 2 to 3 per cent in January for the sharpest monthly gain in 20 to 25 years.

"Consumers are being misled about farm prices by big-city newspapers and the urban press," he told an agricultural outlook conference.

Butz said the January rise, to be disclosed in a forthcoming report by the Labor Department, will be interpreted by some reporters as an annual rate of 24 to 36 per cent in consumer food bills.

Such a projection, Butz said, "is grossly unfair," and does not take into account seasonal variations and volatility of farm prices.

"That use of statistics is like saying if you have a cold this week it is at the annual rate of 52 colds a year," Butz said. "This kind of arithmetic is preposterous, and the urban newspapers ought to know better."

A new Consumer Price Index, to be issued soon by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will probably show an increase in January food prices of "2 to 3 per cent or something like that," Butz said.

The Agriculture Department has predicted that retail food prices will rise about 6 per cent for all of 1973, the most in 22 years, compared with a 4.3 per cent gain in 1972.

"During the last two months we had seasonal winter time rises in farm prices, largely due to weather and transportation shortages," Butz said. "Newspapers and press stories have blown these seasonal monthly rises into preposterous annual increases."

Just Let 'Em Eat Cheese

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Federal Reserve Board had advice Tuesday for consumers worried about the rising cost of meat: try cheese.

Mixing nutritional counsel with economic advice Arthur F. Burns told the Congressional Joint Economic Committee it will probably take time before President Nixon's action to curb rising food prices becomes effective.

"I have nothing to suggest in the meantime except possibly that the American public would be just as well off if it spent less on meat and more on cheese," Burns said.

The change might well be nutritionally beneficial, he said, and added: "On a purely voluntary basis, I think we would be just as well off if we had one meatless day a week."

Democrats, Republicans Snipe At Budget Chops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic and Republican Senators took turns Tuesday in assailing President Nixon's budget cuts as his budget director and secretary of the treasury listened.

The two officials were told that the cuts meant that the government had gone back on its word in some instances, that "constitutional processes were torn to shreds," and that the administration considered Congress to be too dumb to make proper spending decisions.

However, Secretary George P. Shultz and Roy L. Ash, the new head of the Office of Management and Budget, defended the budget vigorously.

Both said that Congress voted so much money last year that Nixon was left with no alternative but to slash $11 billion from the spending total for the current fiscal year.

Ash declared that a 15 per cent income tax hike or its equivalent in other increases would be necessary if the President left spending unchecked.

Shultz said the situation involving the current budget was an uncomfortable one for all concerned.

It can be avoided in the future, he told the Appropriations Committee, if Congress will agree to a

Lincolnite Leads Scholastic Team

Twenty-one Nebraska high school seniors, led by one scholar from Lincoln Southeast High School, Steve Krantz, earned a place on the 1973 Regents' All-State Scholastic first and alternate teams the University of Nebraska-Lincoln announced Wednesday.

The team members were selected solely on scores in the Scholastic Aptitude Test taken by 6,586 seniors in 366 Nebraska high schools. Team members and others in the top 101 scorers will receive four-year scholarships to attend UNL, according to Jack Ritchie, acting director of scholarships and financial aids.

Krantz, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Krantz of Lincoln. He ranked first in the statewide competition which is open only to those seniors who rank in the upper fourth of their class. Krantz is the past president of the Forensic League and received the organization's merit and honor awards. He has been active on the staff of the Runes, high school literary magazine, and is a National Merit semifinalist. He attended a summer debate and speech workshop at Georgetown University and summer sessions at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Second place winner is Mariam Seaver, 17, senior at Omaha North High School, who is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. LaRoy E. Seaver of Omaha. A member of the National Honor Society, she is a National Merit semifinalist and was named to the honor roll. She is active in Madrigal Singers, girls' track, band, choir, and has held several posts in the United Methodist Church. She plans to study music education or history.

Third place scorer is Douglas Alan Nelson, 17, senior at Omaha Benson High School, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Nelson of Omaha. The recipient of the Woodman of the World American History Award, he was named to the honor roll and has been active in the school newspaper, drill team, cadet police and mathematics club. He is a member of two Explorer posts in law and physics. His career plans are undecided.

The other seven member of the All-State Scholastic First Team, parents, schools, and subject interest, listed alphabetically, are:

—Myron D. Andes, 18, a senior at Ralston High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Myron D. Andes of Omaha, who plans to study physics.

—Albert T. Borchers, 18, senior, Omaha Burke High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Borchers of Omaha, who plans to study mathematics.

—Alan K. Borkenhagen, 17, senior at Omaha North High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kari Borkenhagen of Omaha, who plans to study mathematics or physics.

—Rosalie Hall, 17, senior at Lincoln East High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Hall of Lincoln, who plans to study psychology.

—John C. Keller, 16, senior at Scottsbluff High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Keller of Scottsbluff, who plans to study mathematics.

—Rita Mary Willett, 17, senior at Omaha Marian High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Willett of Omaha, who plans to study biology.

—James L. Williams, 17, senior at Omaha Central High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Williams of Omaha, who has not decided on a college major.

The 11 members of the All-State Scholastic Alternate Team, school, parents, subject interest, listed alphabetically, are:

—Ruth Auers, 17, senior at Lincoln East High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Auers of Lincoln, who plans to study pre-medicine.

—Timothy K. Briesse, 17, senior at Alton High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Briesse of St. Edward, who plans to study mathematics or physics.

—James D. Bruhn, 17, senior at Omaha Benson High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald W. Bruhn of Omaha, who has not decided on a college major.

—John C. Deeds, 17, senior at Lincoln North High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin E. Deeds of Lincoln, who plans to study mathematics or computer science.

—Marjorie Ann Dickey, 17, Omaha Central High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Dickey of Omaha, who plans to study cultural anthropology.

—David N. Johnson, 17, senior at Blair High School, son of Dr. and Mrs. Niel M. Johnson of Blair, who has not decided on a college major.

—Krista J. Munson, 17, senior at Lincoln East High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil L. Munson of Lincoln, who has not decided on a college major.

—Charles W. Petersen, 17, senior at Omaha Westside High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Petersen of Omaha, who has not decided on a college major.

—Gary L. Rima, 18, senior at Scottsbluff Senior High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rima of Scottsbluff, who plans to study electrical engineering.

—Robert K. Weimer, 18, senior at Lincoln Southeast High School, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Rima of Scottsbluff, who plans to study electrical engineering.

—Alicia L. Whitely, 17, senior at Lincoln High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Whitely of Lincoln, who has not decided on a college major.

Survey Shows Lincolmites Satisfied With Health Care

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

An overwhelming number of Lincolmites are satisfied that they are receiving good quality health care, particularly if they have a regular doctor.

At the same time, area residents in the lowest income categories are less likely to be served by a regular doctor.

Those are two of the major assertions contained in the report of the low-income advisory committee to the Lincoln Hospital and Health Council.

The LHHC Tuesday accepted the report for its review and future action. (See Story on Page 11.)

The thick report is the product of several months of study by a committee acting on an LHHC charge to identify the health needs of the low-income and medically indigent population of the community.

The report was based on interviews with 143 citizens picked at random from a city directory or from lists supplied by the Lincoln Action Program and on surveys of medical professionals and agencies in the community.

Sixty-five medical professionals, including physicians, dentists and optometrists were surveyed and a number of agencies contacted by the committee.

Much of the consumer survey, which was based on the interviews with the 143 citizens, was reported on income breakdowns according to the response of the citizens on several questions asked.

Here are some of the major responses elicited:

—on quality of health care, citizens with annual incomes of less than $4,000 who said they have a "regular doctor" reported they are 100% satisfied with the quality of the health care they receive. The percentage dropped no lower than 91% for any income level, and that was in the $6,000 to $10,000 range.

—for those citizens who said they do not have a regular doctor the percentage of satisfaction dropped as low as 80% for those in the $4,000 to $6,000 range, but those in the less-than-$2,000 bracket again reported 100% satisfaction.

—citizens in the lower income ranges said generally they are less likely to have a regular doctor, and similar generalizations were reflected in dental care.

—a large majority of citizens in all income levels said they wanted to know more about how to maintain good health.

—citizens in the lowest income levels reported they perceived little health care discrimination, while those in the over 10,000 range said they perceived a high percentage of discrimination.

—transportation and child care problems associated with health care were most often cited by citizens in the $4,000 to $6,000 income range.

The surveys completed by the 65 health care professionals indicated that:

—the overwhelming majority are accepting patients, and about half said they are satisfied that their patient load is "about right."

—large majorities said they have little difficulty employing sufficiently trained personnel for their staffs.

—most said fewer than 10% of their patients experience serious problems in paying bills.

—of nine possible barriers to the delivery of good health care to lower income citizens, the most often cited were lack of knowledge about existing services, lack of positive attitudes toward services and professionals and lack of coordination and cooperation among services provided by various agencies and institutions.

The several health-related agencies contacted said generally they believe that:

—citizens need to know more about available services.

—agencies could cooperate to build public awareness.

—more than half said transportation to their service is not a problem for clients.

The study was used as the basis for a series of recommendations which will be studied by the LHHC for future action.

Laos Royalists Agree To Truce With Reds

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The royal Laotian Government announced Tuesday it has reached agreement with the Communist Pathet Lao on a cease-fire after more than a decade of Laotian fighting overshadowed by U.S. and North Vietnamese intervention in the tiny, landlocked kingdom.

The official Vientiane government radio said the agreement would be signed in ceremonies at 11 a.m. Wednesday — 11 p.m. Tuesday EST — in the office of 72-year-old Premier Souvanna Phouma. It gave no details of the agreement.

The government radio did not say when the cease-fire would become effective. Some reports, including one from the official Soviet news agency Tass, said it would be at noon Vientiane time Thursday. There was no official confirmation.

The bilateral agreement comes 25 days after a Vietnam peace agreement was signed in Paris by the United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. A cease-fire was declared in Vietnam on Jan. 28, and the following day President Lon Nol proclaimed a unilateral truce in Cambodia.

But the shooting and bloodshed have not stopped in either Vietnam or Cambodia. While U.S. warplanes have halted their attacks in Vietnam, they have continued raids in Laos and Cambodia.

A spokesman for the U.S. Defense Department, Jerry W. Friedheim, said in Washington that U.S. bombing operations in Laos have not yet halted.

Ex-POW Grateful Skirts Still Short

ANDREWS AIR FORCE BASE, Md. (AP) — A Couple of things haven't changed in the seven and a half years Tom Sima was a prisoner of war, and he's grateful for both. Mini skirts are still here. And the legs they reveal; well, they're nice too.

"I'm glad the mini skirts didn't go out," was one of the first things the bachelor aviator said after a family reunion here.

"It's very hard to concentrate on what you're saying," Sima confessed to his sister, Mrs. Daniel Tumolo of Philadelphia.

"When a gal's sitting there with her legs crossed in one of those skirts. It's hard to concentrate."

"I said, 'wait till summer,'" Mrs. Tumolo said in an interview Tuesday. "Then you'll really be surprised to see how short the girls wear their dresses, especially if you're not used to it."

To which, Air Force Lt. Col. Sima is reported to have said something like he couldn't wait.

"I tried to explain to him about the no-bra look," said brother-in-law Tumolo. For this he wasn't prepared.

"They go out in public like that?"

History Of War Will Prove America Right, Nixon Predicts

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — President Nixon predicted Tuesday history will prove that America was right when "we stuck it out" in Vietnam and said the settlement there brightens prospects for lasting world peace.

Addressing the South Carolina General Assembly, the first state legislature to adopt a resolution hailing the Vietnam peace accord, Nixon said the United States ended its role in the war with honor and with the respect of allies and adversaries alike.

"Because of what we did in Vietnam it is my firm conviction that the United States can now exercise more effective leadership in the cause of world peace," the President said.

It was the chief executive's first full-fledged public address in the nearly four weeks since the Vietnam accord was signed, and White House aides arranged for him to give it in a state that Gov. John West called "the heart of American patriotism."

The President read a letter he said he received from a California mother whose son died in Vietnam. The mother, whom he did not name, praised the "honorable peace agreement" and said:

"Had you agreed to anything less, you would have let down not only the boys remaining in Vietnam, but also those who died in the war ... We feel that our son James would have felt as we do, and would have supported your policy."

Aides said the letter was from Mrs. Louis J. Amendola of Downey, Calif.

The chief executive also quoted from a cable he said he received from one of the returning prisoners of war, Air Force Maj. Robert Daughtrey. "Thank you for returning us with honor," Nixon quoted the cable. "... God bless you. God bless America."

The chief executive's reception at the airport, along the motorcade route and in the South Carolina House chamber was warm and friendly.

Nader Is Turned Back; Sirhan Review Declined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Tuesday turned back a move by consumer crusader Ralph Nader to reopen a government antitrust suit against International Telephone and Telegraph Co.

In an 8-1 ruling the justices agreed with a federal district court in Connecticut that the government did not have to reveal why it had decided to reach a settlement with ITT.

Nader's appeal represented an effort to give the public a greater opportunity to participate in antitrust actions against large business. Only Justice William O. Douglas voted to grant him a hearing.

The 1971 agreement permitted ITT to keep the Hartford Insurance Co. but called for divestiture of three other firms with annual sales of more than $1 billion.

Nader and an associate, Reuben B. Robertson III, said the government's reason, which they said was to spare ITT and its stockholders great financial hardship, surfaced only because the suit became an issue during Senate hearings on the nomination of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst.

tion of Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst.

The Supreme Court in another action declined to review the conviction of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy in Los Angeles in 1968.

Sirhan's lawyers claimed in an appeal that police had searched his mother's home unconstitutionally after the shooting and there was new evidence that he did not fire the fatal bullet.

Kennedy was slain just after he had won the California Democratic presidential primary in his quest for the party's 1968 nomination. Sirhan was sentenced to the gas chamber, but when the California Supreme Court barred capital punishment he was resented to life imprisonment.

His appeal was turned down without comment or dissent.

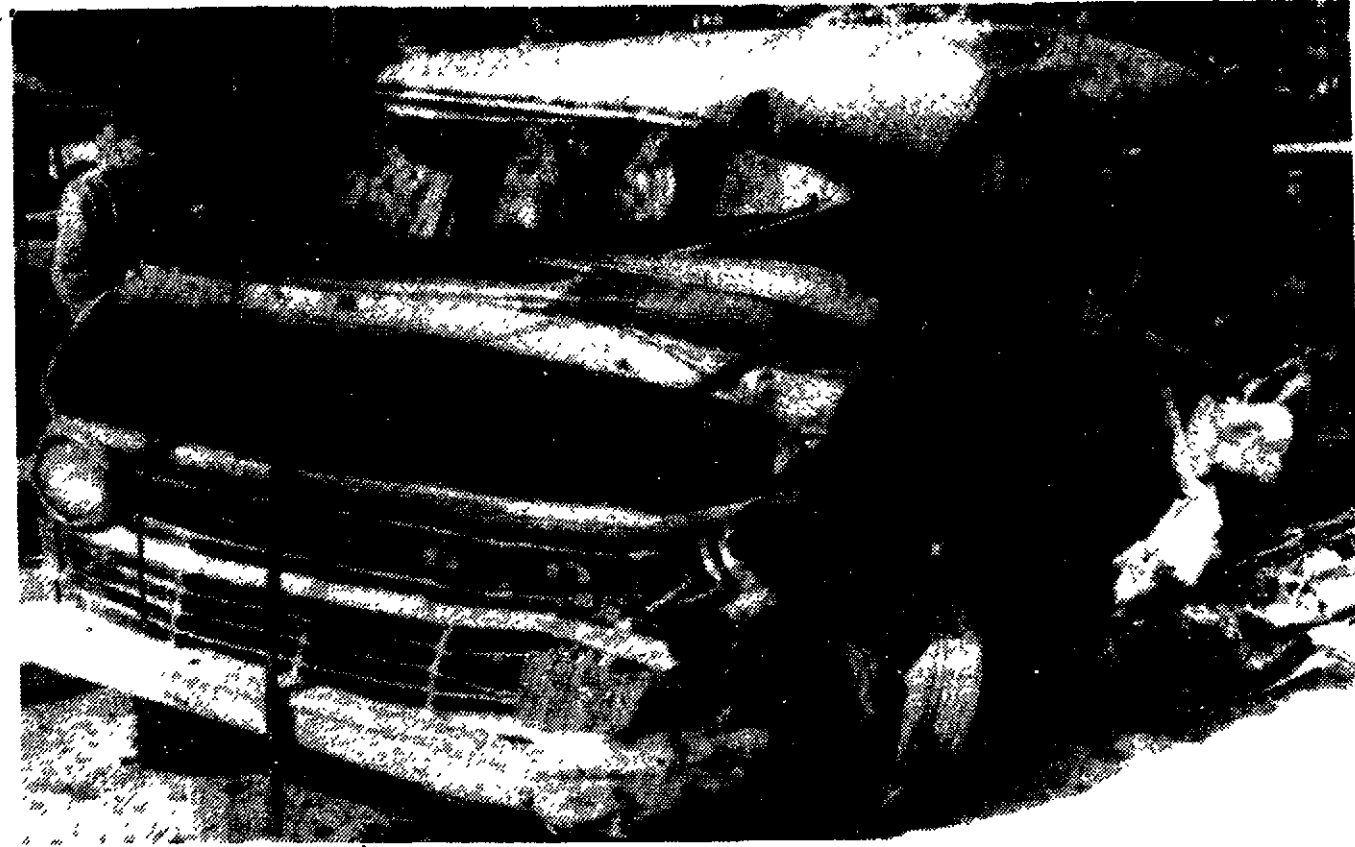

Meanwhile, six appeals were granted review. All will be considered next term.

Among the more significant:

1—A black worker in Denver claiming he was fired for racial reasons is seeking the right to have his law suit considered by federal courts even though a labor arbitrator has ruled the discharge was "for good cause."

2—The Justice Department wants a federal grand jury in Ohio to be allowed to use material gained without a search warrant in a gambling investigation.

3—New York officials are trying to reinstate a law that required public contractors to testify fully before grand juries investigating bribery and other crimes. The case concerns plans for a domed stadium in Buffalo.

30 Children Hurt, 3 Killed

Three pre-school children were killed and 30 injured in South Carolina when this van taking them to the Dorchester County Day Care Center left Highway 22 in Dorchester County and struck several pine trees on the left side of the road. The director of the day care center and a local civil rights activist, Mrs. Victoria DeLee, said she suspected foul play because other vehicles used by the center had been tampered with recently. Her son was the driver of the bus and was seriously injured.

Savings Up Faster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans began saving their money at a faster rate in the last three months of 1972, reversing a spending trend that had lasted for a year, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

The department said that the savings rate of Americans rose from 6.4 per cent of disposable personal income in the third quarter to 7.6 per cent in the fourth.

The report said that gross national product, market value of the nation's output of goods and services, grew at a rate of 8 per cent in the fourth quarter compared with 8.5 per cent announced earlier. Inflation rose at a 2.8 per cent clip compared with 2.7 per cent estimated earlier.

In another report, the department said personal income of all Americans increased by $2.5 billion in January to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $985.4 billion.

This was smaller than the usual monthly increase. An increase in social security taxes reduced personal income by $5.2 billion and a federal pay raise added $1.9 billion.

Thousands Drawn To Rally Protesting 'Horror Budget'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands rallied at the Capitol Tuesday after a day of protests against cuts in antipoverty funds and the closing of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Many had spent the day lobbying in congressional offices against the cutbacks.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., told the crowd at the rally on the Capitol grounds to mobilize "against the horror budget" submitted to Congress by President Nixon.

"Your presence here today is a statement that this country belongs to all the people, not just millionaires who get subsidies even for their mistakes," she said.

Among the protesters was a group of mayors seeking to prevent a big reduction in federal grants to the cities. Mayor Moon Landrieu of New Orleans, representing the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said reductions should be made in federal spending. "But the battle shouldn't be fought on the sweat, on the backs of the poor who live in the cities," he said.

While the protesters gathered, two administration officials appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to defend budget cuts. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Roy L. Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget, said Congress voted so much money last year that Nixon was left with no alternative but to make cuts.

The crowd at the rally on the Capitol grounds was peaceful and attentive.

Capt. L. H. Ballard of the Capitol police estimated it at eight to ten thousand long before the steps and walks became jammed with people.

Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., told them a president who claims election by a new majority has created a new minority and "the New Minority Nixon has formed is a minority of the poor."

Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark told them "We are not here as beggars. I'm not a beggar, I'm a man. I'm here to get what is mine."

"Don't tell me your country can't deal with the people in Newark when it can deal with the people in North Vietnam," he said.

In other developments, the House Agriculture Committee approved a bill to restore a rural program of grants for water and waste disposal projects. The program recently was ended by the administration.

The House Appropriations Committee approved a resolution to extend to June 30, the stopgap funding authority for foreign aid and for the labor and health and welfare departments. The authority was scheduled to run out Feb. 28.

representing the U.S. Conference of Mayors, said reductions should be made in federal spending. "But the battle shouldn't be fought on the sweat, on the backs of the poor who live in the cities," he said.

While the protesters gathered, two administration officials appeared before the Senate Appropriations Committee to defend budget cuts. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and Roy L. Ash, head of the Office of Management and Budget, said Congress voted so much money last year that Nixon was left with no alternative but to make cuts.

The crowd at the rally on the Capitol grounds was peaceful and attentive.

Capt. L. H. Ballard of the Capitol police estimated it at eight to ten thousand long before the steps and walks became jammed with people.

Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., told them a president who claims election by a new majority has created a new minority and "the New Minority Nixon has formed is a minority of the poor."

Mayor Kenneth Gibson of Newark told them "We are not here as beggars. I'm not a beggar, I'm a man. I'm here to get what is mine."

"Don't tell me your country can't deal with the people in Newark when it can deal with the people in North Vietnam," he said.

NU Graduate Cook Named To Head SEC

Washington (AP) — President Nixon has nominated 35-year-old G. Bradford Cook to be chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Cook, who is currently director of the SEC's market regulation division, would be the youngest SEC chairman ever. He will succeed William J. Casey, who recently became undersecretary of state for economic affairs.

Cook is a 1962 graduate of the University of Nebraska Law School and is the son of George Cook Sr. of Lincoln, who is chairman and chief executive officer of Bankers Life Nebraska and was chairman of Nixon campaign efforts in 1968 and 1972 for Nebraska.

AFL-CIO Support Sought By Strauss

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss sought on Tuesday to woo back some of his party's lost labor support, but got little encouragement from AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Strauss, whose appearance followed President Nixon's cordial reception by AFL-CIO leaders Monday, said "I came to tell them there's a role for them in the Democratic party and we want them."

Meany and Strauss spoke at separate news conferences. Meany said that although he and other union leaders will attend a party thrown by Strauss the Democratic chairman had not been asked to formally visit the big labor federation's executive council.

Newsman Will Not Get Total Immunity—Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., chairman of the Senate subcommittee investigating freedom of the press, predicted Tuesday that Congress would refuse to give newsmen unqualified immunity from prosecution.

The North Carolina Democrat emphasized at the outset of his Constitutional Rights subcommittee that "to write legislation balancing the two great public interests of a free press and the seeking of justice is no easy task."

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

An anonymous contributor sends along a clipping showing Rep. Charles Thone of Lincoln as having received a 65-point rating (100 is perfect) by the American Conservative Union (ACU). The part on Thone is circled and the sender notes that the congressman from Lincoln has a "very poor" rating.

Yes, it is a poor rating and how delightful it is to see. For a change, Nebraska has among its all-Republican delegation in Washington one man who thinks for himself and has a rational outlook on the affairs of the nation.

In our opinion, the best thing that can happen to anyone in Congress is a poor rating from the ACU. When Thone starts getting anything better than a 65 out of ACU, he will begin eroding much of the strength he has in the First District.

The First District is a swing district in Nebraska, likely to go either Democratic or Republican. Party loyalties are not the determining factor in this district. Not that there is no straight ticket voting in the First, but there are enough split ticket voters to control the outcome.

That means that the congressman from this district that is extreme in either his conservatism or liberalism will find himself on thin ice at election time. Before anyone gets the wrong idea, Thone with his 65 rating is not exactly in the liberal wing of things.

His rating compares to two points given by the ACU to Iowa's Senator Harold Hughes, a liberal by most definitions but not an extremist. Thone is a moderate, perhaps a bit liberal as a Republican, and that is precisely where he should be. It indicates he is making his own decisions for the welfare of his constituents and not simply mouthing the party line as done consistently by the rest of the Nebraska delegation.

Once again, state senators have turned down a proposal to submit to voters a constitutional amendment for a return to a partisan legislature and that is good news, too. During the course of the floor debate, sponsor of the proposal, Senator Gerald Stromer of Kearney, said that the issue is not whether or not the Legislature should be partisan, but whether or not the state's citizens should be given a chance to express themselves on this issue.

If that is the issue, then Stromer, in our opinion, has lost his case. What he meant to impress upon his colleagues, of course, was that we should not deny the people the opportunity to express themselves.

As a general rule, that is correct but we fail to see that it applies in all situations or in this particular one. The truth is that we sadly overuse the "people's right" to express themselves by submitting to a vote all manner of things that would be better settled by intelligent leadership, and the Legislature is one of the worst offenders.

After all, it is a representative form of government we have, not a continuing plebiscite. That means that we elect people to take care of government for us, to provide governmental leadership and to make governmental decisions.

It doesn't mean that we run to the voters with every issue that comes down the pike. The right of the people to vote is constantly misused as a device either to further or hurt the cause of some issue or program.

The right of the people to vote is largely confirmed in the initiative and referendum process and should not be carelessly employed by legislative or administrative authorities. If the people are aggrieved, they will not hesitate in using the remedial tools available to them.

Off-Campus Living Class In Economics

NEW YORK — The newest student fad of moving out of campus dorms into homes of their own — lock, stock and stereo — is causing some concern among university officials.

Don't, however, make the mistake of thinking it's the kids' morals they're worrying about. Not in these enlightened days of coed roommates and overnight guest privileges.

It's the money. There are, as of last count, two and a half million students on campuses around the country who have set up housekeeping in pads of their own. That's a three-per-cent drop in the past five years, and it adds up to a lot of lost room and board. Especially at the prices colleges are charging these days.

The situation is forcing university officials to readjust their thinking (something they usually face up to with the greatest of reluctance) on possible new policies for residence halls.

One eastern university had to cancel $400 million worth of construction for new dorms — another college rents its empty rooms to elderly local residents. . . and one or two others are eyeing their vacant dorms for possible use as infirmaries.

This trend toward off-campus living may startle a few old grads who have finally convinced their memories it was fun to be locked in for the night at 10 p.m. But it's all part of the new life style, old timer.

And it might turn out to be the best thing that ever happened to the kids.

For the first time in their lives, they have to face up to a telephone bill . . . order up their own daily newspaper . . . get their laundry done themselves . . . and discover the facts of life at the supermarket check-out counter.

If it's relevancy they want, off-campus living will give it to them. And if they can afford to buy their own home, so much the better. Nothing brings a rebellious student into the Establishment faster than a mortgage he can call his own.

A young married couple of our acquaintance sat down a couple of semesters back and prepared a financial prospectus showing how, with a little help from the bankbook from which all blessings flow, it would be cheaper in the long-run to buy a house than pay skyrocketing dorm charges.

So they borrowed a small down-payment (at an interest rate you can't beat anywhere: zero per cent) and acquired a tiny ivy-covered cottage two blocks from their eight o'clock class.

Since then there have been a couple of campus riots down the street, but the "householders" didn't even bother to stroll over for a look. They were too busy remodeling the bathroom and mowing the lawn.

Bull sessions with other home-owning students start out on how to change the world, but they always wind up with where to buy the cheapest hamburger.

Drunken orgies? Forget it. The budget won't stretch to booze. And besides, somebody might bust up the furniture they're still paying for.

They may never get a Phi Beta Kappa key out of off-campus living but they're sure getting an education.

Aid Program Now The Target

America's part in the rebuilding of Indochina, including North Vietnam, is an issue which few politicians will allow to stand on its own merits. With reference to U.S. postwar aid, most talk about other projects, other disappointments, but not building a stable Indochina.

"How can we spend money on North Vietnam, when we are cutting back on our farm programs?" is the type of comment that is typical. Gov. Exon used a similar statement in a speech the other day. It's sort of like asking — as many liberal politicians have in recent years — "how can we afford to send a man to the moon when we can't afford to clean up our cities and our environment and educate our children and take care of our elderly?" And so forth.

They couldn't separate the problems of the cities and the elderly and housing and education needs from spending money on the space program. Well, they could, but they wouldn't, because they thought that making the space program the fall guy would be politically attractive stuff.

Wilbur Mills, the powerful Arkansas Democrat, said that aid to North Vietnam doesn't make sense to him. As chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, he will have tremendous influence on any aid program that needs congressional approval and he opposes the proposed aid program on the grounds we can't afford it. Sen. John Tunney of California says aid to North Vietnam would mean either a raise in taxes or further cuts in the domestic area — in health, education or housing programs, for example.

Sen. Harry Byrd Jr. of Virginia says he sees no justification for any U.S. aid to North Vietnam and he doubts the wisdom of massive aid to the rest of Indochina. The communists in the north still have aggressive designs, he said, and "aid to the other countries of Indochina is also hard to justify at this time when there is no assurance that any degree of stability has been achieved in those nations. In my view, a major aid program in Indochina today would be a structure built on sand."

Stability in Indochina? Of course there isn't — because of a number of factors, including a very long war in which the U.S. played a very big part. If there was stability in Indochina now, there wouldn't be a need for an aid program.

It would appear that some U.S. leaders oppose the aid program because, of all things, the area needs it. Others oppose it, apparently, because they believe government spending should be held down and we can't afford to spend billions of dollars in the rebuilding of southeast Asia after a long and costly war. Others oppose the proposed aid to North Vietnam only because they don't like communists.

But the reasons and the arguments are generally hidden behind talk about other priorities. We're waiting for public figures to speak out on the pros or cons of aid to Indochina, and on that issue alone.

Fee Use Provokes Critics

The battle over mandatory student fees collected at the University of Nebraska and state colleges was renewed in the Legislature this week.

We think it's a proper subject for discussion among lawmakers, although at present we're not disposed to favor LB362, a bill providing that student fees be volunteered and requiring that all expenditures of student fees be accounted for in detail.

What we really object to is the foolishness that attends discussion of the subject, such as the suggestion by S. H. Brauer of Lincoln that law forbid the use of public facilities for any purpose "contrary to public decency."

There are students — aided and encouraged in part by conservatives and enemies of the university — who object to the use of fees and university buildings to support specific programs that have a liberal slant. They have a right to object, but their answer to liberal programs or speakers is to seriously diminish the university's capacity to have any extracurricular programs at all.

Testifying before the Legislature's Education Committee this week, NU President D. B. Varner said that the problem boils down to where to draw the line on using student fees. "The problem is whose views are permissible and whose aren't," Varner said.

It is a sticky problem for some people. We suppose that the best answer is to have those responsible for such programs try to schedule what's current and innovative and inspiring and let the opinions fall where they may, hoping that not too many people are offended.

TOM WICKER

Reversing The Blame

NEW YORK — It is an ironic fact that those who call attention to a problem and insist that it be dealt with often end by being considered the problem themselves. Thus, the war in Vietnam might never have been halted had it not been for the political opposition of Americans who insisted to presidents that it was an unnecessary, unwinnable and immoral war; but in the end it was those same Americans who were consistently accused of having been the stumbling blocks on the way to "peace with honor."

This is not an unusual pattern. Civil rights activists are now widely accused of being responsible for racial unrest in America because they heightened the expectations of blacks and aroused the fears of many whites. So they may have done, but while helping to open public accommodations, legal rights and school opportunities to an extent that would not have come without them. For another example, civil libertarians who insist that constitutional rights to counsel and a speedy trial be observed in the courts are often blamed for the fact that a growing number of Americans seem to think that offenders are not sentenced harshly enough. But as New York legislative testimony is showing, proposals like Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's notion of life sentences for all drug pushers, without any possibility of their bargaining for lesser sentences, would in fact reduce already over-burdened courts to helplessness.

The technique of reversing the blame was splendidly illustrated by Herbert Stein, the chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, when he declared the other day that many in the environmental movement provided a "stunning example" of the "sentimentality, myopia and prejudice" faced by the administration's "decision-makers."

Stein, who is something of a wit, paraphrased the old saying about the bearers of evil tidings. "Today it is the bearer of good news who is in danger," he quipped, which was bad timing, since on the same day Nixon was delivering the wildly exaggerated good news that the nation "is well on the way to winning the war against environmental degradation; well on the way to making our peace with nature."

To the extent either of those claims is true, which is not much of an extent, it is primarily because of the hard work, insistent demands and political action of the environmental movement. Nixon would report that in his administration, federal spending for environmental protection had increased "four-fold." If Herbert Stein or anyone else thinks that could or would have been done without the clamorous and sometimes overstated pressures of the environmentalists, it is a stunning example of nonsense.

At the moment Stein spoke, the administration was sending to Congress a bill to regulate strip-mining which even its own chief environmentalist, William D. Ruckelshaus, had protested as inadequate in a memorandum to the all-powerful "decision-makers" in the Office of Budget and Management (now headed by that great "decision-maker," Roy M. Ash, whose private business record of obtaining government funds for his companies is a stunning example of something. It happens that control of strip-mining, which already has ruined much of Appalachia and now threatens the West, is one of the major problems in "making our peace with nature" — particularly when seen in conjunction with the so-called energy crisis.

The next day, the head of the Ford Motor Company proposed a four-point plan to dilute the law requiring the auto industry to meet rigid clean-air standards in its 1975 models. He threatened as an alternative "a complete shutdown of the United States auto industry."

With better timing than Stein's, a National Academy of Sciences report appeared on the heels of this bluster and presented the conclusions that the auto industry could meet the emissions requirements by 1975 but that Ford and other makers were concentrating on the most expensive and least effective method of doing so.

Two Sides

Lincoln, Neb.

I (or I should say "we") would like our mortified motorists to read this in reply to their very touching comment about our throwing snowballs.

Well, maybe they haven't thought about themselves. They, too, have their own way of having fun. Our innocent drivers have their own way of getting cheap thrills. They get those thrills whenever they see kids near a puddle of muddy water around a curb. They think it's cute to see how big a splash they can make. Several kids we know have had their clothes ruined because of these perfect drivers, who would stop at nothing to antagonize us Culler kids.

We would like the drivers to think next time before they splash into a puddle, about how very angry it makes them when we throw snowballs at them.

Drinking Age

Lincoln, Neb.

I wish to express my sympathy to "J.M." that he has no greater motivation for the 18-year-old than that he be allowed to drink at 18. I wonder if he would rather be a statistic? He mentions that most other states have their drinking age at 18.

I have just received the results of the lowering of the drinking age to 18 in Wisconsin. "In Wisconsin during the first two months after giving the 18-year-olds the right to drink, the Division of Health reports indicate that 12 deceased drivers 18-20 years of age were tested for the presence of alcohol. Ten had been drinking. During the same months a year ago, the same number had been tested. Five had been drinking." Deaths had doubled in one year with the lowering of the drinking age.

As I have noticed the people who have lost drivers' licenses in Nebraska, I have noted the largest number are in the very young age bracket, indicating this is a problem here. I have also noted the large number of very young drivers killed in accidents.

I believe a bill in the Legislature this year would permit the testing of blood alcohol of the deceased drivers or passengers. Perhaps then we will have more accurate statistics in Nebraska.

Until then, I would hope that "J.M." could find a greater motivation than drinking at 18.

HELEN PATZEL

The Resources

Lincoln, Neb.

We are still a young country, growing and developing. We have capitalism as our economic system and democracy as our political system. For the political system, there is a new frontier, the county governments. Rural people have not been standing still, just asleep.

A function of county government is poor relief. Man is a social being. An individual or community may be rich in money, yet poor in daily needs. Rural Nebraska is socially poor. Capitalism won't correct it. Democracy must.

We are a republic. As the country grew, the states did not increase in area but in numbers. The ultimate aim is the individual who has the true soul. From the national government, we are broken down to the county and then stop for an interruption. We have individuals, families, towns or cities, but the rural community is vacant. Might we take one step down, go forward and fill the vacancy?

Instead of all politicians running to Washington for their resources, perhaps they should turn to their own people, who are their resources.

FARMER

Not Both Ways

Blair, Neb.

The Nebraska Unicameral, fresh from making a 29-to-11 mistake by following Ernie Chambers in his preoccupation with prejudice on LB12, would serve the majority of people of Nebraska better by taking a good second look at Senator Proud's position on rescinding legislative action on the Equal Rights Amendment.

Unless the distasteful side of our society is hell-bent on replacing men (without operative procedure), they should take a long look, as should our legislators, at the possibilities inherent in the passage of such legislation. This, considering the offbeat decisions of our Supreme Court on criminals' treatment, school prayer, pornography and abortion.

Will the ladies be happy to relinquish ALL honors, privileges and restraints they are now privy to accepting with grace? They can't have it both ways, once the portended law becomes law.

DEWEY NEMETZ

No Jubilation

Lincoln, Neb.

A letter appeared in the Feb 4 Kansas City Star, written by David L. Rabe. I think it is deserving of wider circulation. In part, Mr. Rabe said:

"It was not so very many years ago that the very good 'abortion' was used with not a little distaste and was thought to signify very close to the ultimate moral grotesquery. Yet today there are those who have demonstrated positive jubilation that the 'dark medievalism' proscribing abortion has been stricken from the books."

Justice Blackmun stated there is no agreement when a child may be said to be alive. A human fetus is not a tadpole and is not properly regarded as an "it" to be disposed of or gotten rid of save for the most sorrowful and serious reasons. Nor is a pregnancy a disease. Yet today a pregnancy is "terminated" or a fetus "disposed of" as if the condition or the child were cancerous and destructive.

"Is it reasonable or just to destroy human life under some circumstances, and what are those circumstances? Considerations of population, pollution, poverty and race tend only to obscure the real issue."

"All that is smoke to confuse what really is involved. A child is not a cosmic inconvenience. He or she may be a personal or political inconvenience. And perhaps there are things more important to a woman than the life of her child, and perhaps there are things more important to a government than the life of its people. But let us, for God's sake, admit it, and say what those things are. Let us admit that there are such things as lust and greed. The most unseemly thing about the whole business is the perverse insistence that it is liberal, humane and ennobling."

"Surely it is an important decision on the part of a mother and others involved to take the life of a child. The fact that now there are few legal restraints seems hardly an occasion for jubilation."

MRS. ROY LOUDON, JR.

The Individual

Lincoln, Neb.

The Equal Rights Amendment states simply, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

These few words have created much discussion, pro and con, recently. However, simply interpreted, the amendment provides only that sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of citizens, men or women. The amendment recognizes the dignity and individuality of every human being. The amendment requires only fair treatment of the individual.

The Nebraska Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, which consists of 40 clubs of employed business and professional women in the state, were proud that the Nebraska Legislature was, among the very first to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. We are greatly disappointed there is any consideration now to rescind that action.

Not only has the amendment already opened new doors for women, but it has also extended occupational opportunities for men. More men are entering the fields of nursing, cosmetology, elementary teaching, airline, hosting, etc. and there has been a need for men in these fields. We are sure the Nebraska Legislature acted wisely in the interest of all Nebraska in ratifying the amendment and will act wisely again in the same interest.

MAY STEWARD

No Distortion

Lincoln, Neb.

So Robert Beum (Feb. 17 Star) thinks I have distorted his letter of Feb. 6. And the other two women also misinterpreted him. We have done no such thing.

His letter was an obvious attempt to discredit the ERA, irrespective of its pros and cons, by discrediting its supporters. He then used a strawman approach to knock down his own distorted view of who and what ERA supporters are.

Absolutely anyone who disagrees with his ultra-conservative, right-wing point of view is automatically labeled "radical Left" or naive and politically unsophisticated, including the President.

For his information, every group I mentioned, with the exception of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, was taken from the Phyllis Schlafly Report.

Yes, I read where he bigheartedly conceded that the ERA was "not in the strict sense a communist plot." But neither are the groups I mentioned or myself "radical Left" or naive.

As for his "scholarship," I am well-aware of his education. Does he think that by signing himself "Professor" (which he is) that his views will be more believable? Hogwash! Many professors have diametrically opposite points of view. I, too, have a college education. I am a wife and mother but that has nothing to do with my support or non-support of any given issue.

CINDY CLARDY

Civil Rights

Lincoln, Neb.

Natural rights law comes down from the tenets of religion, i.e. the Ten Commandments, precepts of Buddha, or whatever. Civil rights law comes from documents, wars, and common usage. Natural rights law hasn't changed much in 2,000 years. Civil rights are continually changing.

Since the oppressor in civil rights is the current government in power, it seems as if a civil rights insurance ought to be set up. The local officers cannot be held 100% accountable for knowing all about civil rights law. And it is not right for the one who is denied his civil rights to hire a lawyer or fight his case himself and be confronted by the county attorney or attorney general who exist at taxpayers' expense, including the taxes the plaintiff pays.

So, in a private company, if an employee violated someone's civil rights, ordinarily the employer wouldn't pay for his lawyer if a suit was brought, with the exception of the case where the employee was acting under the employer's direction. But when a government official is sued for a violation of civil rights, the entire force of the state legal department is brought in to defend him. This is not fair to the one who has sustained the injury.

A fairer way would be for the state to carry a sort of civil rights protection on their employees and then in case of a suit, the attorney general or county attorney would step out and the insurance company would defend the state employee. The cost of the insurance could be divided between the employer and state.

San Francisco — We turned on the TV to watch the return of the POWs. Much talk about what a man feels, what he is, after that time in a prison camp.

I've known a half dozen men who did POW time. None of them said they were jammed up forever. They went back to civilian life seemingly untouched.

An Australian told me: "I never knew what Christmas was like until I was in a prison camp in Japan. You know Down Under, Christmas is hot. It's summer. We read about Christmas in England, we eat plum pudding, but —

"Anyway when I was in Japan that Christmas, it had the feeling. Even in a prison camp. It was the snow, I guess, and the lights."

He saw four Christmases in Japan.

Here's the daily horoscope. "Military affairs prosper." What military affairs, Astrologer? The Army gave me some dog tags and a correspondent's card. The card said if I was captured, I was to be treated like a captain.

I never found out. The Australian — he was captured at Singapore — was a captain. He said the treatment was no weekend at the Hilton.

A part of my military affairs were in Washington, D.C. It seemed to me the generals spent a good deal of time designing new uniforms.

Generals get tired of the same old uniforms. They want something groovy.

"More young men will be attracted to military service if they are given smarter uniforms."

I doubt that. Young men are against getting shot at in any kind of suit. So Vietnam is over. So how do you know they won't think of something else?

The Army gave me the dog tags, the card and PX privileges. When peace came, they let me keep the card and tags, but wouldn't let us buy cheap PX cigarettes anymore.

Those were the happy warriors. They had done their time. They weren't staying around for the instant replay.

I was so mad I almost gave up smoking.

Few men are happy warriors. On the eve of Grant's great battle in the wilderness, a whole regiment marched away to home. Their enlistment had run out. They marched with flags flying. Drums beating.

ACTION LINE

Or Write P.O. Box 81669, Lincoln, NE 68501

I wonder why The Lincoln Star didn't publish the returns of the certified public accountant examinations taken in November. I have been searching the paper but have found nothing.

—Interested Citizen, Wymore

ACTION LINE: The list in question ran in the Sunday Journal and Star Feb. 4. Because of space limitations, it is The Star's policy not to repeat such items when they run in the Sunday paper.

If you didn't get a copy of that paper, you can order back copies of the edition in limited quantities and at regular price from the circulation department of the Journal-Star Printing Co.

We have nylon carpeting wall-to-wall and we're shocking ourselves silly in this dry winter weather. We don't have and don't think we can afford a humidifier in our central heating system. What alternatives are available?

—H.S. Lincoln

ACTION LINE: If you think you can't afford a central humidifier, you might look into a portable humidifier. Both of these methods of controlling static have the additional benefit of keeping your nasal passages moist along with your carpet fibers.

But at least two other aids are available to cut down on shocks. Several Lincoln carpet dealers can apply an anti-static chemical that should work for the entire heating season. Another remedy is to apply chemical anti-static yourself with an aerosol spray can.

My brother was recently hospitalized in the Veterans Hospital in Denver. While there he received five pints of blood. The hospital tells us we must replace it with 10 pints. When the Red Cross mobile unit was in Ashland some of my brother's friends gave six pints specifying that they be used to pay back the blood he used. Now we have a letter from Denver saying that Nebraska will not transfer this blood to Denver. Would you please check on this to see what's going on?

—J.B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Gordon Heininger with the Red Cross in Omaha says first of all that your brother as a veteran is under no obligation to pay for the blood given him, either in cash or through replacement. That, says Heininger, is a veteran's right.

But the Denver Vets Hospital has an exceptionally zealous blood replacement unit since they have no contract with a Red Cross blood center to supply them blood. In fact, there is no Red Cross blood center in Denver and the hospital must buy from private sources. Thus the hospital benefits from replacement through donation.

Heininger says that your brother's friends should have been told when they donated the blood that it could not be transferred to Denver. Supplies here are scarcely adequate. But the mobile unit is staffed by volunteers who probably were not aware of this complicated situation.

You may, of course, wish to continue working with the Denver Vets Hospital and with blood-collection agencies that can transfer blood to Denver. But you should know that you are volunteering your blood resources and are under no legal obligation to repay. If you feel that these circumstances were not made clear to you, you may wish to contact the Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C.

Can you settle an argument for us? A neighbor says the year he was born, 1899, the temperature hit -47°. I say the temperature never got that cold in this area. What is the lowest temperature ever recorded in the Lincoln area for that or any other year?

—Curious, Dorchester

ACTION LINE: The coldest on record for the Lincoln area is a -29° recorded on Jan. 19, 1892, says the National Weather Service.

In the year your friend was born, Lincoln weather watchers gauged a low for the year of -26 on Feb. 11.

The latter part of November I sold my four mutual funds. Two of the funds paid me the price quoted in the Wall Street Journal for that date. But my other two accounts, which received my request to sell on the same day, did not. Since this cost me about $90, I'm not too happy. Can you check this for me?

—P.L., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A check with the divisional sales manager of your brokerage firm revealed no discrepancies in the sale of the accounts at that end.

That manager has already written you a letter covering the transaction as he sees it and is enclosing photocopies of the pertinent legal records which he hopes will clear up your doubts. If not, you can call him at the office to discuss the matter further.

Our son has written a letter to Johnny Rodgers whom he idolizes but we don't know where to send it. We were given an address by the University of Nebraska Athletic Dept. but that letter was returned undeliverable. Can you help?

—L. and B., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: The Athletic Dept. isn't surprised that the letter wasn't delivered. A secretary says that NU football stars are fast movers on and off the gridiron. "Once a week" was the way she described their patterns of peregrination.

But you can send your mail to one of two collection spots. The Athletic Dept. at the Coliseum collects mail for all ex-players and ex-players who wander in from time to time. Or you can send your letter to Johnny Rodgers c/o San Diego Chargers, P.O. Box 20666, San Diego, Calif. 92120. He's expected to be picking up his mail there in about two weeks.

Incidentally, Johnny, if you're out there in newspaperland, Don Bryant has been trying to get hold of you for three weeks about getting a picture taken.

Casino Lounges Are Disappearing

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Las Vegas casino lounges, long-time proving ground for aspiring comedians and singers, have all but passed from the scene.

The trend among major hotels is to replace the lounges, which once served chiefly to lure customers into the gambling establishments, with revenue-producing gaming.

Items:

The 300-seat Riviera Hotel lounge where Barbara McNair, Sheeky Greene and Vic Damone once held forth is gone, replaced by one blackjack table, 400 slot machines and a convention dining room.

The Sands Hotel's 300-seat Celebrity Theater, where Johnny Tillotson once belted out country-western tunes, has been ousted by a keno lounge.

Keno Favored
The Landmark and Desert Inn

hotels dropped lounges in favor of keno, a variation of bingo, and the Frontier replaced its 500-seat lounge with keno and a small lounge.

Only a handful of hotels offer top-name entertainment in lounges, and the reasons given for the demise of the rooms vary.

"It was economics primarily," says Tony Zoppi of the Riviera. "The price of entertainment got out of sight. The last month we operated, the weekly cut (fixed cost) was close to $50,000 a week." "Salaries for entertainers have been a major factor," says Bill Bray of the Landmark.

Others say the decline stems from the advent of business managers who demand that every part of the hotel show a profit.

"There was a time when neither the lounge nor main rooms was supposed to make money," says veteran press agent Gene Scheffrin. "What they really wanted was traffic. Now they're taking the attitude that every room has to make money."

"Sharks At Door"

"One of the things that killed them was the sharks at the door," says one hotelman. The lounges offered top-flight entertainment for the price of a two-drink minimum usually $7.50 per person, but the maitre'd demanded at least $10 for a good table, raising the price substantially, he said.

As the lounges died off, some of the bigger names graduated to main showrooms, but opportunities for other performers dwindled.

"A lot of them are not working here as much as they used to," says Zoppi.

"Today, there aren't that many rooms ready to take a shot on a young comedian," says Scheffrin.

Tourism Rises

Pretoria — A total of 459,478 tourists visited South Africa in 1971, at 17.9% increase over 1970.

Seaweed Lengthy

San Diego, Calif. — The large brown seaweed or kelp found along the Pacific Coast can grow as much as two feet a day. It eventually reaches a length of about 200 feet.

Belvin Won't Run

Okmulgee, Okla. (AP) — B. Frank Belvin, general missionary to the Creek and Seminole Indians, said he is a candidate for the office of commissioner of Indian affairs.

Israeli Computers Dispense Farm Advice, Religious Opinions

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
HAIFA, Israel (AP) — When the summer sun parches an arid kibbutz this summer and the tomatoes need more water, the farmer can telephone his neighborhood computer to adjust his irrigation pipes. When an Israeli rabbi needs a religious opinion, he can feed his question into a computer that has through the centuries and asks an answer from 3½ million words of ancient wisdom. Israel has about 250 computer centers — not counting the secret wizardry of the Defense Ministry. Electronically, Israel is eyes beyond its Arab neighbors, on a par with some European countries, and ahead of the Soviet Union. "There is a high level of consciousness in the government that computers are essential to the future," said Prof. Allen Reiter, chairman of the department of computer sciences at the Haifa Technion — Israel's institute of technology. "Computer Science. The government is pushing computer science education," he added. Technion got its first computer in 1963 and by 1971 the computer center's budget had grown from $15,000 to $1.5 million, according to Reiter. IBM has opened at Technion its eighth scientific research center outside the United States and the first in the Middle East. Almost all of Technion's 8,000 students study computer programming as a scientific tool. At the Weizmann Institute of Science, Prof. Achi Brandt is pressing for computer use to be taught in high schools. One kibbutz school is to begin next year. Israel is leaving development of computer machinery to the United States and other Western countries. Israel is specializing instead in original programming and other new computer thinking. "Computer technology could become an important export,"

Reiter said. "The only raw materials you need are pencils and paper." From U.S. Like many Israelis in computer work, Reiter, 36, is from the United States. He came to Technion from Lockheed Aircraft in 1968. He attributes Israel's rapid computer advances to American knowhow — American immigrants, visiting scientists and Israelis who train in and regularly visit the United States. One example of Technion ingenuity is Prof. Nathan Buras, an Israeli water resources expert who writes programs for collective kibbutz farm settlements.

Data on land area, water, available machinery, financial credit, market prices and related subjects is fed into a computer which then maps an entire production schedule. More than 100 kibbutz settlements use the system, and production is said to have risen.

When farm conditions change abruptly and advice is needed, a call to a kibbutz computer center can produce a solution in as little as 58 seconds.

Health Council Accepts Low-Income Care Study

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Hospital and Health Council Tuesday accepted for review and future action a report which recommends a series of steps to improve health care services for low-income residents of the city and county.

The report of the low-income health care advisory committee was handed to the LHHC by the committee chaired by Alyce Studnicka.

It was formally received after a review of the recommendations and a brief discussion on whether the committee's study was based on valid surveys.

The question about the validity of the surveys was raised by David Levine, a University of Nebraska-Lincoln psychology professor who is also president of the Open Door Health Center.

Levine said he was concerned that the citizens surveyed by interview may have constituted a biased sample, since many of them came from lists supplied by the Lincoln Action Program, the local antipoverty agency.

He said since those people already are in contact with a social service agency, they may not constitute a valid sample to test whether low-income people are satisfied with their health care.

The advisory committee's report said that the "overwhelming" majority of citizens surveyed said they are satisfied with the quality of their health care services.

The committee said its recommendations were aimed at improving the quality of services for the few who said they do not receive adequate attention.

Mrs. Studnicka said she considered Levine's comments an "unfair accusation" since the citizens interviewed also included a number of people selected at random from names in a city directory.

At the same time, she said the committee realized the possibility of a "shortcoming" on the matter of a "truly representational control sample of low-income people."

Levine also indicated he was concerned about the number of people included in the survey, hinting that interviews of more people may have been necessary to get reliable results.

Later, however, LHHC member Richard Youngscap said he was "impressed with report," and it was formally received without dissent.

Levine is not a member of the council.

The first of the advisory committee's recommendations urges LHHC to establish a task force to formulate a community-wide policy for coordination and development of primary-outpatient services.

The committee said that recommendation was based largely on the study's evidence that low-income people are less likely to have a regular physician and that lower-income citizens often use hospital emergency rooms in lieu of regular physician services.

The committee said emergency rooms are often used inappropriately by patients not in need of emergency care.

The task force would report six months after its establishment.

In other recommendations, the advisory committee urged... compilation of a list of physicians who are accepting patients, with the list to go to physicians offices and any agencies which request it.

—that LHHC "encourage, support and sponsor, if necessary, the development of a centralized system of community health education, information and advocacy," a concept which somewhat parallels the ideas being studied by the Open Door Health Center with which Levine is associated.

—investigation of the possibility of including in the local telephone directory a section which lists by category the social and health services in the community —increased use of dental hygiene students in public school dental health programs and possible expansion of the city-county health department's potential for serving dental needs of low-income patients —coordination of the work of agencies which can help people in need of transportation services for health care purposes.

In other matters, the LHHC: —decided it would make no comment on Milder Manor plans to add 50 beds at its skilled nursing home, since LHHC had not been able to gear up for a full review of the matter —accepted as new members Mrs. Studnicka, Walt Stephenson and Paul Ess.

—decided to hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. March 13 to discuss the LHHC work program.

Omaha Pusher Given 10 Years

Omaha (AP)—Clifford Jones, 43, convicted of selling heroin, was sentenced to 10 years in prison Tuesday.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren Urbom denied a motion by Jones' attorney for a new trial, and ordered Jones to pay the costs of prosecution.

Jones was manager of the Crap House, a reputed gambling place which figured in a Nov. 15 raid when 32 persons were arrested on drug charges.

Corn And Sorghum Not All Harvested

Although spring is officially only a month away, 3% of the corn crop and 7% of the grain sorghum crop in Nebraska remain unharvested as of this week due to an early winter.

And even if the farmers would be able to harvest the uncut crops, most local grain dealers in the state have shut off purchases of grain due to the rail car shortage, it was pointed out Tuesday in the weekly crop-weather report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

"Livestock care was the main concern of most farmers and ranchers during the past week," the report stated.

Freezing temperatures last week brought temporary relief to the extremely muddy lot conditions, the bureau said. "However, slow gains continue with death losses above average. The weather is not suitable for calving and some death loss of newborn calves is reported.

"Most ranchers still have adequate feed to see them through the winter. Hay is available, but high in price."

Precipitation received throughout the state during the past week included:

Busy 89-Year-Old Woman Does Huge Job For Poor

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Friend — Doing volunteer duty for the Lincoln Veterans Hospital isn't easy for Mrs. Myrtle Young, but not because she's 89.

The problem for this frisky great-grandmother is that she's so perpetually busy doing other things for other people. That's the way it's been ever since she and her late husband, Clinton, retired here from the farm in 1954.

Nebraska Farmers Tops In Corn Yield

Boone, Iowa (UPI)—Two Nebraska farmers have won the top two positions in the irrigated division of the 1972 national corn yield contest of the National Corn Growers Association.

Contest officials said David Case of Minden established a new record yield of 255.03 bushels per acre. The old record had been set in 1970 by Joe Maria of California.

Second place went to Elvin Remmers of Firth, with a yield of 238.94 bushels per acre.

The two farmers and their families will receive an all-expense trip to Spain and Italy this fall.

Curtis Urges Probe Of Kotouc 'Injustice'

Omaha (UPI)—Stating that a "great injustice" was being done by the Army in dismissing an officer cleared of guilt in the My Lai massacre, Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Tuesday called for an immediate investigation by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Curtis, in a letter to the committee which was also endorsed by Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., referred to the case of Army Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc, a native of Humboldt, Neb. Kotouc is in danger of being forced out of the service after 18 years duty due to what Army officials have said is a poor efficiency record.

"During the period of mild hysteria at the time of the My Lai massacre incident in 1968, the army wrongfully and without evidence charged Captain Kotouc with murder," Curtis said.

"He was branded as a murderer at home and abroad. There was no evidence to support such a charge and it was later dropped and the charge was reduced to maiming and assault."

"Captain Kotouc was tried by a court-martial in April, 1971, on the charge of maiming and assault, and in less than one hour a verdict of not guilty was returned," the senator added.

Irrigation Said Not Ruining Soil

Gothenburg — Three separate research efforts at the University of Nebraska found no evidence of disastrous effects on soils in Nebraska from the use of irrigation water, it was reported at a water conference here.

With the development of irrigation, soils are taken from a centuries-old environment and are placed in a new climate with 18-30 inches more annual rainfall, according to Dr. R. A. Wiese, extension soil fertility specialist.

When this happens, irrigation water is bound to cause chemical changes in the soil, the soil expert declared. Most of the surface and groundwater used for irrigation in Nebraska is good but some is of "questionable quality," he said.

The primary concern is for possible increased salinity or alkaline quality in soil under irrigation, Wiese said.

However, the studies projected that salt wasn't accumulating in irrigated areas under current irrigation methods, he pointed out.

When water used for irrigation contains calcium, magnesium, potassium and sodium, the soil could become more alkaline, he said. If water is low in these elements, as in the Sandhills, the soil is expected to show increased acidity, Wiese added.

Irrigation water's effect on soil depends on the change that occurs, Wiese continued. For example, if the soil contains 120 tons of calcium, the addition of one more ton is hardly a major change, he said.

Although toxic elements carried in irrigation water are a problem in some areas of the country, Nebraska has no toxic waters, he said. Water can pick up soluble toxic elements when wells are dug through deposits of minerals, such as boron found in the southwest U.S., he told the conference.

Herman Says State 'Let Down' By Exon

Scottsbluff (AP) — Richard Herman of Omaha, national Republican committeeman for Nebraska and possible candidate for governor in 1974, said in Scottsbluff "the people of Nebraska are being let down by the current Democratic leadership."

Exon, according to Herman, won't accept the responsibility of taking the opportunity given him by revenue-sharing funds to provide state leadership in areas vital to Nebraska where federal projects are being cut back.

Admitting that he is testing the climate for a possible bid for the governorship in 1974, Herman said Nebraska is being misled by Exon in the handling of the school aid issue. He said Exon is being "less than fully honest with the people."

"The governor has publicly supported increased state aid to public schools, but his plan wasn't included in the budget recommendations," Herman said.

Trustees Topic Budget Hearing

Kearney (AP) — The State Colleges Board of Trustees will meet here Saturday, with major topics expected to include the Legislature's budget hearings.

Kearney State College President Dr. Brendan McDonald is scheduled to attend a legislative budget hearing Thursday to protest a reduction of some 33% in Kearney State's budget.

Lawrence Hit By Burglaries —8 In Night

Lawrence (AP)—Authorities are investigating eight burglaries which apparently occurred within a few hours of one another.

Sheriff Don Squires said the eight incidents occurred early Monday morning. Cash totaling more than $650 was taken in the burglaries. Damage to the buildings involved was expected to exceed that figure, Squires said.

The burglaries hit a Target store, the Post Office, an IGA store, Lawrence Lumber Co., the American Legion, the Circle Bar, Joe's Place, Hlavoc Hardware and the Village Inn.

Lincoln Hosts Organizational Meeting For National Dressage Federation

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON

The dictionary defines "dressage" as "the art or method of training a horse in obedience and precision of movement." In the minds of most laymen — i.e., those not actively involved in the "world" of horses — it is probably most closely associated with the Lippizaners of the renowned Spanish Riding School in Vienna, Austria.

However, in reality, the term implies a good deal more than either of these two perceptions indicate. To professional horsemen and women, dressage (in the sense of training or schooling) means "the gradual harmonious development of the horse's physical and mental condition with the aim to achieve the improvement of its natural gaits and a perfect understanding with its rider." This is accomplished by virtue of rigorous training in which the rider uses his natural "aids" (weight, hands and legs) to influence the movements of his mount.

There are various levels in dressage, from elementary or "basic" dressage up through Grand Prix Dressage, which is included as one of the equestrian events in Olympic competition. In the latter case, the horse is asked to complete a prescribed course consisting of a variety of maneuvers; and he is judged on the basis of perfection of execution, and the amount of time it takes to complete the course.

Up until recently, dressage was thought of primarily in the context of that extremely exacting degree of training represented by Olympic equestrian teams, and, to some extent, the Spanish Riding School. However, during the past several years, attitudes of horsemen throughout the United States have changed considerably; and more and more trainers — both Western and English — are adopting the methods of dressage.

Lowell Boomer, a noted Lincoln equestrian, in speaking of this change in attitudes, observes that most trainers now realize that dressage is not beyond their capabilities; and that it is not alien or foreign, (and thus, somehow, suspect). Boomer defines dressage simply as "the art of allowing the horse to do, under control, the things that he is capable of doing when he is free. It is a method of developing a supple and agreeable animal."

He goes on to note that, in this respect, dressage is "a system of training applicable to all horses," no matter what the trainer's ultimate goal may be. And he adds that, dressage as a practical training method "should not be confused with the Grand Dressage riding that is definitely a specialty."

The increasing popularity of dressage came to fruition in Lincoln this past weekend when representatives from across the United States gathered at the Hotel Radisson-Cornhusker to establish a national organization to promote dressage as a sport and an art.

Many luminaries from the equestrian world took part in the Friday through Sunday event, including Mrs. Howard Serrell, of Greenwich, Conn. member of the American Horse Show Association (AHSA) Dressage Committee and president of the American Dressage Institute, located in Saratoga Springs, N.Y.; Hardin L. Crawford, III, of Gladstone, N.J., the official representative of the AHSA and vice-chairman of its Dressage Committee; and Stephen H. Schwartz of Sylmar, Calif., president of the California Dressage Association. Also participating in the event was Mrs. John Wolford of Milford, Kan., whose husband, the late Col. John Wolford, did the groundwork and training for the first U.S. civilian Olympic team (prior to that time, the Cavalry represented the United States in the Olympic equestrian events).

Serving as chairman of the conference, which was called for the purpose of establishing a degree of unity in the dressage community, was John H. Fritz of South Orange, N.J., a member of the AHSA Dressage Committee.

All areas of the United States were represented, and as a result, the U.S. Dressage Federation was formed. Selected as members of a temporary executive committee were Mrs. Melanie Lofholm of Kenfield, Calif., chairman; Mrs. Serrell, Mrs. Lillian Zimmerman of Birmingham, Mich.; Mrs. John O'Connor of Gaithersburg, Md.; and Mr. Boomer. The committee will be in charge of developing the structure of the new organization, assigning responsibilities, establishing the by-laws, and taking care of incorporation. The Federation's temporary headquarters is in Lincoln.

Basically, the organization will promote dressage as a viable and practical training method; disseminate educational material; upgrade judging abilities; assist in conducting clinics and competition, and aid in the selection of those who will represent the United States in international competition.

In this way dressage will, hopefully, become a truly national sport; and equestrians all over the country will be made aware of its benefits, and will be able to participate actively in national and international competition, if they so desire.

The training committee of the Lincoln Council of Camp Fire Girls will have a 9:30 o'clock meeting on Wednesday morning, Feb. 21.

The News Around Town

Static is not the word for Lincoln. When it appears that all are present or accounted for, don't believe it—That is when the surprises come.

We had thought that since moving into their new home at 7200 Old Post Rd., in the Wellington Greens area, life would go on as usual for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cunningham and their family. Don't believe that either.

It so happens that Mrs. Cullinan is taking off next Tuesday for her old home, Copenhagen, Denmark, where she will spend a month visiting her sister, Mrs. Lis Brand, and viewing once more all of the old, familiar places.

Mrs. Cullinan came to Lincoln as a bride something like 22 or 23 years ago, and this is her second trip back to her homeland.

Since we have mentioned Mr. and Mrs. Cullinan's new home there may be interest in who purchased their former residence on Woodsdale. That now is the address of Dr. Virginia Trotter, vice-chancellor of academic affairs at the University of Nebraska.

We had thought that the approaching weekend would be a little too placid for our liking — It happens that we under estimated the Saturday night portion of it.

On Saturday evening, so we learned, the Allons Club is having a party at the University Club. Then members will dine and they will dance, but the dining won't be the usual sit-down affair. Instead, the fondues, the cheeses and the countless other delectables will have a buffet setting.

And that isn't the whole story — The party theme is "Apres Ski", and the party planners are Mr. and Mrs. George Hancock, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dibbern, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lamhere, and Mr. and Mrs. James Pollard.

The guest list which, at this moment may be incomplete, includes Mr. and Mrs. Ted Forke, Dr. and Mrs. Jerald Spethman, Mrs. Barbara Roper, Mr. and Mrs. George Albin and Mr. and Mrs. Lauris Whitehead.

Speaking of Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead — their return to Lincoln after an absence of a number of years will please Phi Beta Phi and Phi Gamma Delta circles. Mrs. Whitehead, by the way, is the former Rhonda Minnick.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead arrived in Lincoln about a month ago when Mr. Whitehead, a real estate appraiser for the Veteran's Administration, was transferred here from Aberdeen, S.Dak., and their address is 1110 Meadowdale Dr.

Tea, Talk At YWCA

Costa Rica, the most industrialized nation of Central America despite its smallness of size, will be the featured country at the YWCA's World Relations Tea and Talk session to take place on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 22.

Dr. Maria Downing, a native Costa Rican, will be the guest speaker at the 1:30 o'clock event. Dr. Downing was graduated from San Jose University in Costa Rica, and received her doctorate in 1967 from the National University of Mexico. She currently is on the staff at Nebraska Wesleyan University where she serves as advisor to international students.

Included on the program will be Dr. Downing's daughter, a student at NWU, who will present a Costa Rican dance in traditional costume.

'Nebraska's Heritage' Is Topic

Nebraska's Heritage will be featured at the Thursday afternoon, Feb. 22, luncheon meeting of the Lincoln Homebuilder's Auxiliary.

The 12 o'clock luncheon and program meeting are scheduled to be held at the Colonial Inn.

Ken Petersen will present the brief discussion of antiques which will be narrated by Dr. Robert Manley.

Chit Chat with Roxi

Teenagers have problems as do all people, and whether that teenager is a girl or a boy makes no difference in the matter of worrisome questions. Talk your problems over with Roxi — Write to her in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

Dear Roxi:
I have a problem that is dumb-founding me. This girl that I've been dating lately called me up last night and asked me if I wanted to go to a concert with her that is coming up. I was going to ask her, but my dad works the night of the concert and I wouldn't have the car. Well anyway she can get a car for that night. That's the problem. If I do go and I see somebody there I know, I'll be the laughing stock of the year. A girl taking me to a concert! If I don't go I'll miss the concert and she'll ask somebody else.

Dear Desperate:
You know the two things you can do. Your problem is the fact you can't do both. In today's society anything goes — almost anything, that is. This girl asked you to the concert because she was trying to be realistic. You can't go without a car, right? OK, then start from there. She has the car, what is so wrong with her driving you to and from the concert? If it bothers you, offer to pay for the gas. Secondly, you can pay for the tickets, so go and have a good time and forget about who's driving. Remember, this girl must like you or she wouldn't have gone to all the trouble of asking you.

true, then forget what she said. If not, then you haven't lost anything because a friend who talks behind a person's back isn't much of a friend.

Dear Roxi:
If there was ever an old fashioned girl I've got her. We really like each other and have gone out a number of times and at the end of every date, I've tried to kiss her and as soon as she figures out what I have in mind, she makes some excuse for getting in the door quickly. What is wrong with her? I've never known a girl who didn't want to be kissed.

Dear Don L.:
From the description you have given me I would say this girl doesn't want to be thought of as an easy target. Many girls still prefer to wait, because they feel kisses are special things, but boys are just the opposite, they think of kisses as an every day occurrence. Don't pressure this girl. Enjoy your time together and when she's ready to be kissed, you'll be the first to know.

Dear Roxi:
I just found out that my best friend has been talking about me behind my back. Really nice! I call her a friend and this is what I get. Now, I know what I can do about this so-called friend, but I would like to know what you would do in my position.

S.W.

Dear S.W.:
Before you do anything you might regret ask yourself if the person you received this information from is a reliable source, or is she known for changing stories around? If the latter is

Mrs. Wentz Winner Of Speech Contest

Mrs. Lawrence Wentz recently was named first-place winner of the Lincoln Toastmistress Club's speech contest.

She presented her winning speech, entitled "A Hairbrush for His Whiskers," at the club's dinner meeting held at the Legionnaire Club on Monday evening, Feb. 19. She will thus represent the Lincoln group at the Council I contest to be held at Offutt Air Force Base on Monday, March 19. Hostesses for that area competition will be the members of Offutt's Jetstream Club, and the winner of that event then will be entered in the Cornbelt Regionals to be held in May.

Competing with Mrs. Wentz for the club honor were three other winners of previous semi-final speaking contests — Mrs. Millard Bennett, whose topic was "Happiness Is", Miss Cora Mae Briggs, who spoke on the topic of "Pressures We Love Them", and Miss Leora Horning, "Did You Hear?"

Special judges for the evening's competition included former state senator, Mrs. Fern Hubbard Orme, Mrs. Robert Meyerhoff, Jerry Maranville of the Sunrise Toastmasters Club, and Leo Allen of Toastmaster Club 403.

Mrs. J. Eyer was toastmistress and contest chairman, and Mrs. W. G. Custer, president of the Toastmistress Club of Lincoln, presided at the meeting.

CWI Dinner Workshop

Secretary of State Allen J. Beermann was the guest speaker at the Tuesday evening, Feb. 20, meeting of the Credit Women International. The program meeting which followed a 6 o'clock dinner, took place at the Elks Club.

"Evaluating Our Education Program" was the topic of a parent-teacher communications workshop which was held for the parents of eighth and ninth grade students at Daves Junior High School Tuesday evening.

The double life of rainy day gear is something Count Romi practically invented. And once again he demonstrates that the anyweather coat doesn't have to be dull. Anything but. To illustrate, a dotty Qiana nylon shirtcoat, with dashing dolman sleeves, rounded collar and tie belt contrasting in a reverse-dot pattern. And a pure thoroughbred in double knit wool. Other great fabrics include imported gabardines, silky poplins, cottons and canvas. Come in Thursday and Friday and let Count Romi's special representative, Mr. Peter Reinach, show you the complete collection in sizes 4 to 20. Designer Shop, Second Floor, DOWNTOWN ONLY.

Interesting News From Town And Country

In a sense, Monday was a preview of summer for mothers in the Town and Country communities. Due to the fact that George Washington's birthday was officially observed on the 19th, school children had a brief vacation from their usual Monday routine — and parents were once again reminded of what it's like to have the youngsters home during the entire day.

On Tuesday however, things were back to normal, and since "normal" implies "plenty to do" in Town and Country, we're certain that virtually no one was overcome with boredom.

Pleasant Dale

Welcoming two travelers back to Nebraska Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Glen Oxley. Calling on Mr. and Mrs. Oxley at that time were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Warren, who make their home in Lexington.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren had just returned from a vacation in California, during the course of which they had visited with Mrs. Warren's brother, Steve Oxley, a resident of Hawthorne, Calif.

The travelers returned to Lexington that evening.

Davey

Entertaining visitors on Saturday evening, Feb. 17 were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shandera and family. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rexilius and son, Mike.

We should also mention the fact that another recent visitor at the Shandera home was Mr. and Mrs. Shandera's grandson, Eddie Shandera. Eddie, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shandera of Lincoln, spent last weekend as a guest at his grandparents' home.

Waverly

Four out-of-town visitors were entertained last weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Dilldine. Sunday callers at the Dilldine home were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Mahloch and children, Nancy and Mark, of DeWitt.

Incidentally, for those who are not aware of it, Mrs. Dilldine retired on Jan. 21, after 28 years of employment with Goodyear in Lincoln. We understand that, at that time, she was the guest of honor at a party planned and attended by many of her working associates.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carlson and family have been Mrs. Carlson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Greenwood. Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood, who make their home in Emerson, Iowa, arrived in Waverly on Saturday, Feb. 17.

A very special event took place Friday, Feb. 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reiner. On that particular date, Mr. Reiner and his twin brother, Ivan Reiner, observed their birthdays, and, of course, that called for a celebration.

In observance of the event, both Mr. Reiners were the guests of honor at a dinner which was attended by family members. In addition to the honorees and Mrs. Alvin Reiner, those taking part in the festivities included Ivan Reiner's son-in-law and daughter, Mr.

and Mrs. Norman Sundeen and daughter, Renee.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Swanson recently returned home following a week-long sojourn in Chicago, where they were guests at the home of their son, the Rev. Rolla Swanson. During their stay, they celebrated the occurrence of Rev. Swanson's and his mother's birthdays.

On Sunday, Feb. 18, Mr. and Mrs. Swanson and Frank Munn were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Doane.

The members of the MYF at the Methodist Church will sponsor an Old-Fashioned Box Supper to be held at the church on Sunday, Feb. 25. Anyone interested in attending the event, which will feature an auction of box suppers, is invited to participate.

Opening lead - three of diamonds.

It is said that in war every new weapon gives rise to a counter-weapon, but, while this proposition does not wholly apply to bridge, there are undoubtedly a number of situations where a conventional bidding weapon can be turned against its user.

Consider this deal where the bidding went as shown. South's two spade bid was not based on the normal complement of 17 high-card points — generally associated with a jump-shift response — but his bid must be regarded as correct, considering the enormous power of his spades. He was on the verge of a slam the moment partner opened with a heart, and he announced the good news by the immediate jump-shift.

East's double of six spades, by contrast, was conventional. It requested West to make an unusual lead. On the given sequence, it demanded that West lead the first suit bid by dummy, namely, hearts.

The significance of the double was not lost upon North, who realized that a heart lead through the A-Q could prove fatal. So North very judiciously ran to six notrump, and this contract proved untouchable against any opening lead. He lost a club trick, but that was all.

East was unfortunately in a position where, if he passed six spades, West would very likely lead a diamond — while, if he doubled, he was courting the danger of chasing the opponents into six notrump. On the whole, East was probably right to double, for the North-South cards might have been so divided that neither opponent would have budged after the double. In the actual case, East was a lost soul either way.

ABBY: ALANON will help

DEAR ABBY: How I envy those women who complain because their husbands are glued to the TV, watching football. Mine is glued to the bottle. Alcoholic Anonymous is wonderful for some people, but it is mud to him. He tried it a few times and never went back.

I could write a book about my life which has been nothing but unhappiness for 19 years. We have three school-age children. I work five days a week away from home and have to do all the grocery shopping and errands. When I prepare a meal that doesn't suit my husband, it lands on the floor, on the wall, or on several occasions thru the window.

I can't even trust him to pay a utility bill. We've had the electricity and water turned off because the bill wasn't paid.

I just have to write this, Abby. I have no relatives to talk to. We have no friends. Who wants to associate with people like us? He still holds on to his job. It's a miracle how he can drink all weekend and make it to work on Monday morning. He says a man who works can do what he wants to do with his time off. And that's what he does. Drinks! Please help me.

BLUE MONDAY
DEAR BLUE: You can't force a man to go to A.A., but you can learn how to cope with an alcoholic mate by attending ALANON. (They're listed in your phone book.) I urge you to go, Dear. They have accomplished wonders. Also, there is Alateen for teen-agers of alcoholic parents. And please give me a progress report.

DEAR ABBY: To all those horticulturists who talk to plants, forget it. My wife and I had our first plant in December 1964. We not only put little Fern's flower-bed by the phone, we gave her a room of her own. Everything was just vine at first, but now all of our problems seem to stem from her. Honestly, she had us eating out of her palm. Right after she blossomed — too young to be thinking about roots — she started going out with dates. They wouldn't leave her alone. Then some nut got her in trouble. We'd force them to get married, but they would make a terrible pair. Now her reputation has been soiled and she can no longer rest on her laurels.

Fern has grown older and doesn't care to get spruced up anymore. She refuses to go out until we give her a vaselift.

I may be out on a limb, but my advice is not to talk to plants. BLUE-FORGET-ME-NOT

DEAR BLUE: Lettuce face it. Your bloomin' punishment is beyond be-leaf. But I dig it. Oak, Bud?

Juvenile Center Site Is Opposed

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

A recommendation by the City-County Planning Department that the Juvenile Attention Center not be constructed on the proposed 13th and South site resulted in the Lancaster County Board's deferment of action until possible other sites are investigated.

After a hearing Jan. 30 on the proposed site for the center at 13th and South just east of Lancaster Manor, the commissioners requested the planning department to review the entire Lancaster Manor complex site in relation to the proposed project.

According to Planning Director Douglas Brogden, the planning department found no problem with the land use relationships and its occupants but noted that the department would recommend the need of providing additional off-street parking as the site develops and occupancy increase with related county services in the future.

New Nursing Home Payment Plan OK'd

Lancaster County Commissioners, sitting as a board of welfare, Tuesday approved a new procedure proposed by Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert for establishing nursing home payments.

Trabert and Lancaster Manor Administrator Jerry Gibson explained that the plan would make the process more efficient by minimizing the need to present information to the county board for its approval for a rate of $270 or more.

Trabert said that the present methods which involves approval of a temporary rate when a patient is admitted to a nursing facility and later making retroactive payments is "complicated and cumbersome" and to the best of his knowledge not used by any other county in the state.

Under the new plan, after the patient has been in the nursing home for a short time, an evaluation of his care will be made and away from Lancaster Manor, Brogden stated in a letter to the board.

"It is our contention that the most critical aspect of this site is the need to preserve open space and provide future off-street parking as the facility matures," he stated, adding that time did not permit his office to make surveys and studies as to future needs but that projections were made on the basis of estimates of current employee and visitor needs and future parking needs.

Brogden said with the growth potential of Lancaster Manor and uses of Trabert Hall his office would not recommend construction of the Juvenile Attention Center on that site.

"We recognize the difficulty of finding alternate sites at this time and the federal grant deadline, however, it is our opinion that the east side of the site should be kept open for future off-street parking," he said.

The State Crime Commission recently approved an application for $168,000 in federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds and the county board budgeted $100,000 in local funds for the project.

a rate negotiated by a welfare office staff member with the nursing home administrator.

The rates requiring State Department of Welfare approval will be submitted to the state office and payment will be delayed until the county hears from the state, Trabert explained.

After the nursing home and bookkeeper for the county welfare office are notified in writing of the approved rate, immediate payment will be made to the nursing home.

Trabert and Gibson noted that the old system resulted in complaints from nursing home administrators because of the added bookkeeping required and because of the several months' delay in receiving full payment.

Under the former plan, a temporary rate was paid until the commissioners approve it if the rate exceeds $270.

County Board To Pay $3,000 For Fire, Ambulance Study

Lancaster County commissioners Tuesday accepted subject to possible charges a proposal by John Luebs to study Lancaster County fire protection and emergency service needs.

The commissioners had deferred action last week on a proposal submitted by Luebs for study of the emergency needs pending possible receipt of other proposals.

Commissioners Robert Colin and Jan Gauger accepted Luebs' proposal with certain restrictions since no other proposals were submitted. Commissioner Kenneth Bourne was absent from the meeting.

Luebs' who was terminated last summer by the county board as executive director of the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation, told the board that he is a consultant with Human Resource Consultants, for which the address is listed as 3315 M - Luebs' home address.

Luebs' first proposal, submitted last week, provided at a cost of $1,500 a proposed detailed study of ambulance service needs for the county giving cost and time requirements.

However, the second proposal, which was accepted by the board, calls for an additional study of the fire protection services in the county, which with the original proposal would cost the county a total of $3,000.

Package Cost Lower
Luebs told the board that a detailed proposal of a study of fire protection service would be somewhat higher than that required for the emergency service survey earlier proposed but that if both studies are purchased, the total package cost for both studies would be $3,000.

In other action, the board approved with the exception of $2,500 the request by Earl Harris Const. Co. for payment for remodeling the fourth floor of the County-City Building.

Colin noted that several items such as changing locks on doors which were installed upside down and fixing doors so they will close properly need to be completed before the entire payment is made to the contractor.

Advisors Named
The board also approved the appointment of the following persons to an advisory committee on voting machines:

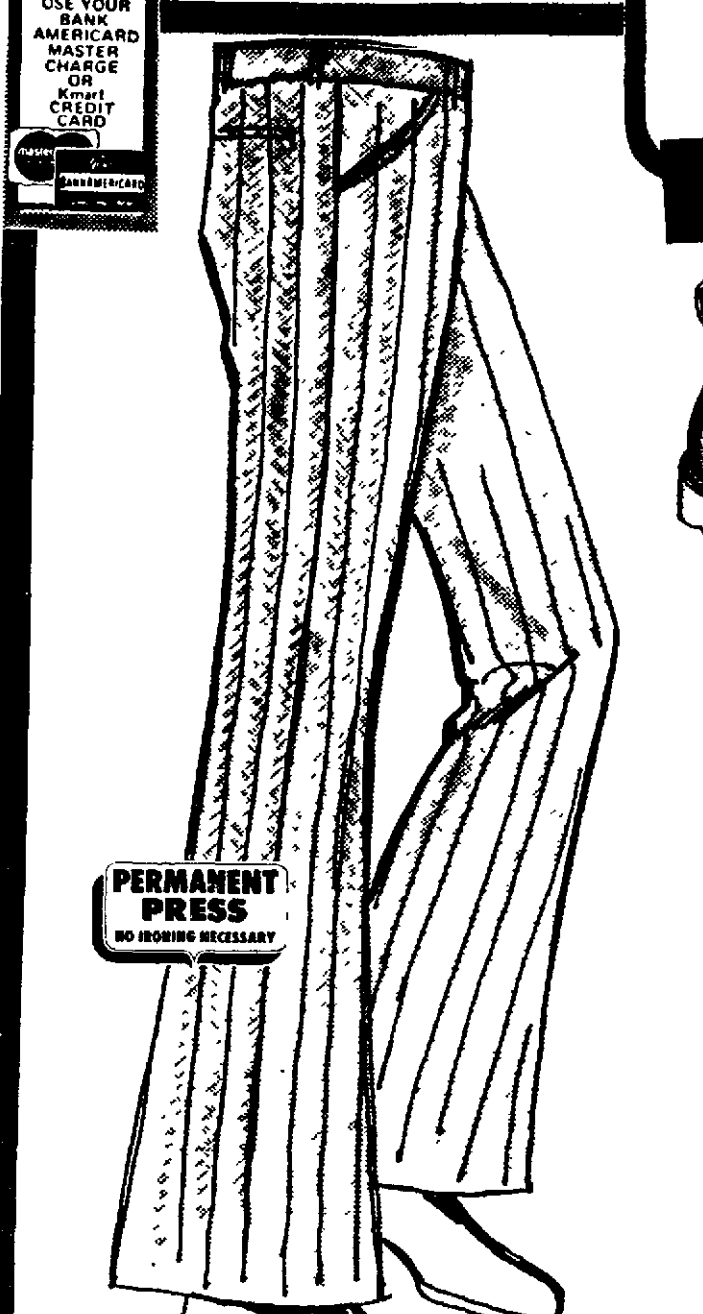

Art Knox and Robert Sittig of the Republican Party; Mrs. JoAnn Maxey and Mrs. Genie Gupta of the League of Women Voters, and Ken Thayer and Yvonne Hardesty of the Democratic Party.

The commissioners several weeks ago had agreed to appoint a committee consisting of representatives of each of the three groups to work with Election Commissioner Bill Davidson in studying the voting machines to be tried in the spring elections and other machines which may be available.

In other action, the commissioners:

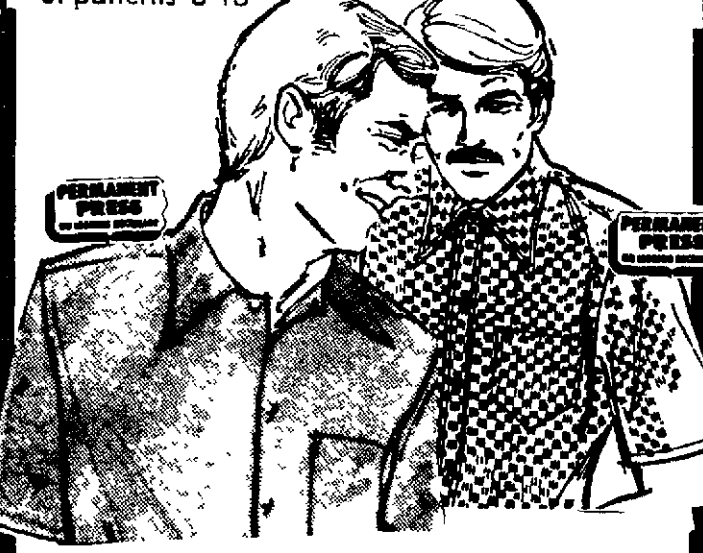

- Approved a subdivision permit made by Dean J. Cadwallader
- Approved a $2,000 contract between the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) and the Lincoln-Lancaster Child Guidance Center for 36 man hours per month for 12 weeks for counseling with parents of severely disabled children
- Approved request by Sheriff Merle Karnopp to purchase a trailer for $1,300 to use for removal of junk cars without wheels
- Accepted offer of Nebraska Book Store in supplying books for use at the proposed Juvenile Attention Center
- Referred to county attorney for drafting resolution directing the erection of "No parking" signs at the intersection of West High and Folsom
- Approved the resolution approving the one and six-year road improvement programs
- Deferred action on the goals and policies committee report

MANY DOORS TO OPPORTUNITY

You may hear it said that there's little opportunity, these days for youngsters to get involved in something constructive and worthwhile. Parents of newspaperboys know it isn't true.

The newspaperboy has opportunities every day in the week to make new friends, develop his self-confidence, improve his understanding of the business world, and learn how to manage time and money. No finer practical education is known. Nothing more perfectly complements the formal learning of the classroom.

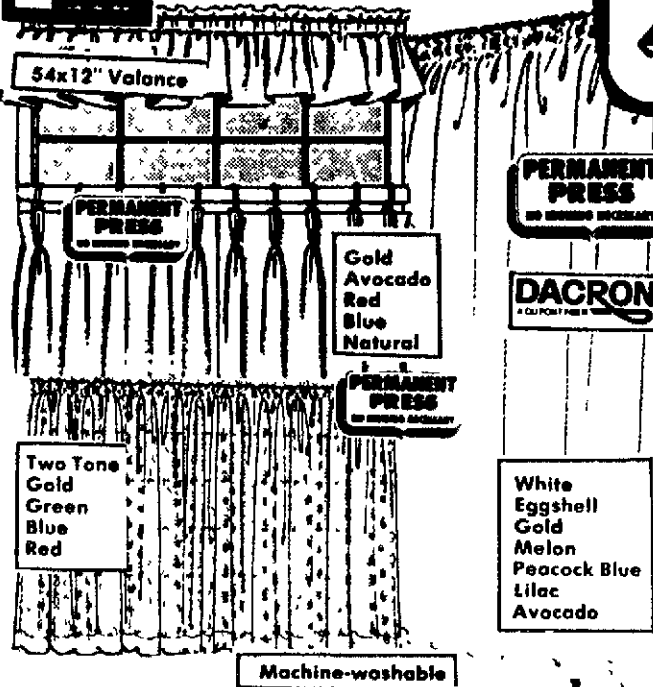

More than that, newspaperboys are in the habit of growing up to become fine, solid citizens. Among the educators, judges, doctors, scientists, clergymen, businessmen skilled workmen, and other outstanding citizens in this community, there is a goodly number of ex-newspaperboys.

For the young fellow who wants to get ahead, the way is clear. Be a newspaperboy!

Old Battle Over Branch Banking Reopened By Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Nebraska's long-standing battle over branch banking was reopened Tuesday at a public hearing on a legislative bill to permit banks to operate one additional auxiliary teller facility in their communities.

The proposal, LB312, was held for later action by the Unicameral's Banking, Commerce and Insurance Committee.

Motions to advance or kill the bill failed to receive majority approval from the committee.

Senators voted 2-2 on a motion to advance, and the count was 2-4 on the motion to kill.

LB312 would allow banks, with the approval of the state banking director, to establish two drive-in and walk-up facilities with limited banking services. They now have authority for one such facility.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood, sponsor of the proposal, said the bill is designed to improve customer service and help alleviate traffic congestion at downtown bank facilities.

"It is not a bill to create, promote or even consider branch banking," he declared.

Disguised Form
Current practices of "conglomerate banking," in which some banks own major interests in a number of banks throughout the state, already provide Nebraska with a disguised form of branch banking, he suggested.

The Nebraska Bankers Association opposed the bill.

NBA President Roland Emmett, an Arapahoe banker, said a poll of the association members opposed the proposal on a 173-207 vote.

Perry Francis, an Omaha banker who spoke for the 221 member banks of Nebraskans for Independent Banking, said the bill is "the first step toward branch banking."

"Concentrate Power"
Omaha banker Phil Giltner said the measure represents "the first long giant step toward branch banking" which would "concentrate the economic power of the state in a very few hands."

If the bill were enacted and fully implemented, Francis said, Omaha could have 51 banking facilities while Lincoln could have 33 facilities.

Columbus banker J. O. Peck said his bank prepared the bill for Schmit's introduction. It is "not a big city bank bill," Peck said, but one designed to help solve bank traffic problems which inconvenience customers. Small country banks who oppose such a measure are "not confronted with the same problems," he suggested. Mike Behlen, a Columbus manufacturer, said the bill would provide "a great convenience" and increased traffic safety conditions for his 1,000 employees.

"It's high time the industry became more progressive" in providing customer services, Oxford banker Dan Huff told the committee. Schmit said local bankers

"have not done the job they should do in Nebraska or we wouldn't have so many young people moving to the cities."

Many small banks have "refused to finance young men in agriculture," he said, and that is an example of how they are "not serving the customer."

Attorney Asks For Dismissal Of Charges Of Eagle Killing

Casper, Wyo. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Ewing Kerr has taken under advisement a motion in the case against the major defendant charged in connection with eagle killings over southern Wyoming in late 1970 and early 1971.

Additional Pay Plan Exclusions Opposed

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State senators should not consider excluding any more state employees from the State Personnel System, the Legislature's Appropriations Committee was told Tuesday.

John Jacobson, chief budget administrator for the Department of Administrative Services (DAS), referred specifically to Omaha Sen. Glenn Goodrich's LB236 when he advised, "If I were a state senator, I would oppose any attempt to exclude any more employees from the State Personnel System."

LB236 would exclude employees of the state technical community colleges from the system. The State Personnel System sets uniform salary, hiring and firing standards for the employment of approximately 15,000 state employees.

7,000 Excluded
Currently, another 7,000 employees of constitutional officers, the University of Nebraska and the state colleges are not included in the system. Frequently, this results in different wages for comparable jobs.

Jacobson's comments came during a briefing on Gov. J. James Exon's 1973-74 pay plan for state employees under the personnel system.

People on the lower end of the wage scale need the salary protection that the system affords, he said, because administrators are given a free hand in setting salaries and raises for people not in the system.

If anything, Jacobson said, the trend should be in the opposite direction—bringing those now excluded into the system.

"The state auditor has complained about losing employees to the State Roads Department (which is included in the personnel system).

'Same Pay Plan'
"If his employees had been in the State Personnel System, they would've come under the same pay plan as the Roads Department and this might not have happened," he said.

Jacobson also released to the committee the latest fiscal impact estimates of the Exon pay plan for 1973-74.

The data indicated that 13,722 state employees would receive a salary increase ranging from 7 1/2% for those making under $7,000 to less than 1% for those earning in excess of $25,000 annually. That averages to an increase of 5.9% over present salaries.

Jacobson said 9,102 employees would receive that 7.5% raise, whereas the 32 employees who earn more than $25,000 would receive 9%.

Together with an average fringe benefit increase of $135 per employee, the cost of the pay plan comes to $7.3 million. Of that sum, $3.3 million would have to come from the general fund.

THIS IS THE END!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Wednesday

Sagittarius often brood about the past about what might have been instead of concentrating on what could occur. Cancer shares this characteristic but to a different degree. Gemini is most likely to live for the moment. For Taurus the credo is likely to be: "The future is here and now." Let me know your sign and how you view time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Decisions made regarding partnership contract marriage. What occurs is apt to be unorthodox. Take nothing for granted. Use experience. Apply past lessons. Heed words of older individuals. Cement relationship. Tie loose ends.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Stick to practical matters. One you respect observes your efforts. Streamline procedures. Lbra individual plays important role. Accents on health employ the way you relate to those who share your interests.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Young persons tend to respond to you in erratic manner. Highlight creativity. Be in touch with those who encourage your efforts. Stress independence of you ally your own style. Affair of heart is featured.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) What was a roadblock removed. Welcome chance to change status quo. Conditions at home base require revision. Know I accept I act accordingly. Aquarian could trigger from entirely. Shake free of lethargy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Accent verbal. Stop feeling there is but one procedure. You are stronger than might be imagined. Favorable agreement is in offing. Key is to communicate to state needs to make additional contacts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Steady approach necessary. Guard valuables. Get an accounting. One who promises much may not be in position to deliver. Money advantage is yours — but you must check the credit. Financial situation will improve.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Toy receive in mirror, compliments. What you do now is apt to have you in a sticky style. There will be dynamic changes. Member of opposition is involved. Stress independence of you ally. Lead now rather than follow.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Events take on a different hue. What appeared rebuff is becomes solid. Taurus. Libra persons are featured. Heed inner voice. You will know what to do. Sons of a return. You no longer are afraid to be yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Many promises are featured. Key is to know what is solid what is empty. Bring forth powers of persuasion. Pieces could add. Relative plays instrumental role where hopes, wishes are concerned. Unorthodox procedure succeeds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your natural abilities are appreciated — gain results. You get more responsibility, but rewards also are greater. Involvement.

CARMICHAEL

with older individual is emphasized. Check your own needs. Be sure you know what it is you really desire.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You make connections with persons at a distance. What appeared far away becomes attainable. You seem able now to beat the odds. Your ideas click. Fine for submission of scripts, formal concepts. Travel is in picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Strive for greater self-sufficiency. Being aware of self interest is not same as selfishness. Know it and act accordingly. Mystery is unraveled. What you were afraid of proves to be without substance.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have great sense of humor and a tendency to do too much at once. October will be one of your most important months of 1973. You are sensitive, creative, a natural actor or actress. Self expression is a necessity. You gain through writing. (Learn The Truth About Astrology. Another Jabbing Limey

Another quick-jabbing Englishman has hit the Nebraska amateur boxing scene, much to the dismay of opponents' noses.

Horace Martin, a Britisher attending college at Bellevue, bloodied the noses of two opponents in Monday night's Omaha City Golden Gloves bout. Referee Gene Buzzello and Larry Emery got sick enough at the sight to stop the fights.

For those who have followed the amateur boxing scene in Nebraska over the past decade, Martin had to remind them of Colin Moon, the Limey, who came to Fremont and did his Golden Gloves boxing for Emery in Lincoln.

Put a beard on Martin and you'd have thought it was Moon come back 25 pounds heavier.

Martin in winning the Omaha City 178-pound title will find himself in the same weight class with Fairbury slugger Dan Griffin in the Midwest Golden Gloves at the Omaha Civic Auditorium March 9-10.

Proving once again that it's a good fight town, but a poor basketball town, the crowd of 3,754 Monday night topped the turnout for Saturday's Creighton vs. seventh-ranked Houston basketball game by 375.

Hernandez To Meet Briscoe

Art Hernandez, the former Omaha middleweight now living in Des Moines, is slated to meet No. 1-ranked middleweight Benny Briscoe in Philadelphia, Briscoe's home town, on March 20 in his bid to climb back up the middleweight rankings ladder.

The Cornhusker Boxing Club, which has been dormant since staging the Stander-Frazier bout save for the Russian exhibition a month ago, is eyeing a March 21 date for a pro boxing card in Omaha.

Stander, who has been training for the past couple of weeks in Boston under the tutelage of Johnny Dunn has reportedly shed 20 pounds which would put him down close to the 250 mark.

It would appear that new heavyweight champion George Foreman's handlers are planning to take the same route deposed champion Joe Frazier was following—that of avoiding top-flight challengers for awhile at least.

Dave Anderson of the New York Times claims Foreman's first title defense has been planned for mid-May in Oakland, Calif., against Danny McAlinden, an unranked Irish heavyweight.

Anderson further claims that Foreman's second risking of his newly-won crown will come against Joe Roman of Puerto Rico, the world's seventh-ranked heavyweight, in the fall.

Snead's Swing Best

Twenty-five leading pro golfers, queried by Golf Digest as to the best golf swing on the tour, named Sam Snead's the best.

Jack Nicklaus finished second with Lee Trevino third and Tom Weiskopf fourth. Others receiving votes were Tommy Bolt, Gene Littler, George Knudson and Tommy Aaron.

Illegal Pools 'Infiltrating' Amateur Golf

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Amateur golf, the last bastion of simon-purism in sports, is concerned over the escalation of betting pools and extravagant prizes in the game.

"There are people accepting a Cadillac with one hand while holding out the other hand with an application for amateur reinstatement," Lynn Smith of Pasadena, Calif., chairman of the Amateur Status and Conduct Committee of the U. S. Golf Association said Tuesday. "Gambling and illegal prizes continue to be perennial problems."

While most other sports, particularly big-time tennis, have shed any veneer of amateurism, golf has stuck rigidly to the ancient code, quickly punishing players guilty of exceeding commercial boundaries.

"I have noted an increase in Calcutta pools, particularly in the California area," Smith said. "There are even intracub Calcuttas. This fosters encouragement to cheat on handicaps."

Calcuttas, which have been outlawed at most major tournaments sponsored by the USGA and even the PGA Tournament Players Division, are pools in which players are bought by individuals and syndicates, usually on a handicap basis. The payoffs often run into thousands of dollars.

"Nassaus and other day-today betting in reasonable amounts are not condemned," the USGA official said, "but the USGA urges its member clubs to prohibit gambling in conjunction with tournaments." The most alarming trend, Smith said, is toward valuable prizes put up by commercial sponsors.

"I know of one case of a hole-in-one club in which participants pay an entrance fee of $100. If one of them sinks a hole-in-one, the prize is a $25,000 home."

"In other instances, the prize might be a limousine, a sail boat or another prize worth thousands."

Under USGA rules, an amateur is not permitted to accept a prize with a retail value of more than $200.

A golfer may accept such a prize, he declared, a non-amateur and immediately apply for reinstatement within two years. That is the period allowed for golfers who turn professional and play as a pro less than five years.

Joseph C. Dey Jr., commissioner of the Tournament Players Division, said he sees no threat of a gambling scandal in pro golf despite the extravagant purses, with $30,000 to $50,000 occasionally hanging on a single putt.

"The rewards of the game are too great," Dey said. "The integrity of the game is too strong. Besides, in golf it is man against a whole field. How do you fix a whole field?"

Smith said:

"Recently, I read a statement by Stan Smith, the tennis champion, in which he said it would cost a player $150,000 to defend the Davis Cup, and he didn't think he could afford it."

"Thank God, we don't have that kind of hypocrisy in golf."

MISSOURI HITS K-STATE

Brown Paces Tigers' Attack

...CATS TUMBLE, 80-66

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Sixteenth-ranked Missouri combined a balanced offensive attack with its best defensive performance to date to stop 13th-ranked Kansas State 80-66 in a Big Eight basketball game Tuesday night.

It was only the second loss in 10 conference games for the league-leading Wildcats. Missouri scored its sixth win in 10 Big Eight games to remain in third place.

The Missouri defense held K-State to 32.9 per cent from the field, giving up 27 field goals in 82 attempts. The Tigers, offense hit 50.7 per cent, canning 34 out of 67.

Missouri's John Brown regained his old form to lead all scorers with 20 points, 18 of them in the first half, to give MU a 52-33 halftime lead.

Illinois State Racing Board Delays Hearing

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Racing Board continued Tuesday until March 1 a hearing on whether Balmoral racing associations, whose control was put in trusts by William S. Miller, will be granted licenses for 1973.

Thomas Nash, Balmoral attorney, asked for the continuance, saying he needed time "to collect more evidence."

Miller, board chairman when Otto Kerner was Illinois governor, turned government witness in a trial in which Kerner was convicted of accepting race track stock as a bribe.

Last year when he was indicted, Miller placed his Balmoral racing associations in "irrevocable trusts" which removed him from active control for the purpose of applying for 1973 dates.

The dates were granted to the trusts by the old racing board. The new board appointed by Gov. Daniel Walker with Anthony Scariano chairman has been advised by the attorney general's office not to grant a license to the trusts, calling them "corporate veils."

A Circuit Court judge upheld the old board's racing dates last month and the case was appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court.

Creighton plays St. Francis, Pa., Duquesne, Pa. and North Texas State on the road before closing with Marquette here March 5.

Wuebben thought he had some help in getting as many points and rebounds as he did.

"I got a lot of rebounds on missed free throw shots and a lot of offensive rebounds just came my way," he said. "And I got a lot of tips on offense, which pushed my point total higher than usual."

The 6-6 junior had been averaging 10.0 points and 7.5 rebounds a game before the game with Cleveland State.

Messersmith Inks Contract

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — New Los Angeles Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith, acquired in a seven-player winter trade from the California Angels, signed his 1973 contract with the Dodgers Tuesday, the club announced.

Also turning in signed contracts Tuesday were shortstop Bill Russell and third baseman Ron Cey. Twenty-four of the 34 players on the Dodgers roster have now signed for the coming season.

Messersmith had an 8-11 record with the Angels last season.

Geneva, Bears Post Victories

By SAM THORSON

Outstate Nebraska Bureau Wilber — Geneva and Hebron, who played through three overtimes just a week ago, will meet in the second-round of the district five Class C basketball tournament.

The Hebron Bears beat Tri-County, 67-65, here Tuesday night in the last minute of play on Dan Miller's conversion of both ends of a one-and-one. Miller recently signed a football letter-of-intent with Nebraska.

Geneva disposed of Dorchester, 78-55, led by sophomore Dan Ward's 20 points and Jerry Ward's 18.

Hebron was led by a 30-point performance by Dick Poppe, who scored 13 points in the second quarter, including five field goals and 3-3 free throws.

Dorchester managed to tie Geneva once at 25-25 with 1:32 remaining in the first half on a pair of free throws by Brad Johnson.

The Wildcats, however, pulled ahead to lead, 30-26, at the half, and then scored 10 straight points early in the third period to put the game out of reach.

Tri-County nearly downed Hebron after trailing 41-35, at the half, tying the game at 65-all with about one minute left before Miller's free throws.

A last-second desperation shot by Tri-County's Mark Stokebrand failed.

Braves Wuebben Leads 'Jays' Crush Over Cleveland State

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Star Sports Writer Omaha — Ted Wuebben had career highs of 26 points and 24 rebounds here Tuesday night at Civic Auditorium to lead Creighton to an 88-76 win over Cleveland State.

Wuebben was 11 of 21 from the field and four of eight from the free throw line as the Bluejays hiked their record to 14-8, while the Vikings dropped to 8-12.

The 'Jays broke up a tight game late in the first half by scoring 10 straight points off a press.

Creighton was trailing, 27-25, with 3:54 left until halftime. After the 10 unanswered points, the 'Jays coasted to a 40-31 intermission advantage.

Cleveland went from 4:14 to 1:29 without scoring and never got any closer than nine points the rest of the way.

NCAA Tabs More Teams

The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Tuesday eight more teams for the national college division basketball championships and the sites of two more regional tournaments.

Named to compete in the championships were Tennessee State; Kentucky Wesleyan; Transylvania of Lexington, Ky.; Assumption College, Mass.; Bentley of Waltham, Mass. and three colleges from New York State—Hartwick, C. W. Post and Rockport.

Rockport automatically qualified for the eastern regional tournament at Hartwick March 8-9 on the strength of winning the State

Other competitors named Monday were Southern Colorado and Coe College of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The playoffs will be at Evansville, Ind., March 14-16.

Cronin, National League president Chub Feeney and owners' representative John Gaherin As has become the custom the past few days, neither side issued any statement regarding the progress of the talks.

Another session was scheduled for Wednesday.

Pole Vaulters Triumphs In Superstars' Event

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — Pole vaulter and part-time actor Bob Seagren won the sometimes tongue-in-cheek decathlon for sports superstars Tuesday, and walked off with $39,700 in his first outing as a pro.

The 26-year-old Olympic gold medal winner, who holds the world outdoor pole vault record of 18 feet, 5 3/4 inches, surprised older pros by winning the weight-lifting, baseball hitting, half-mile run and bicycle race.

"I can sure use that money," said Seagren, who just joined the new International Track Association which plans to stage professional track meets across the country. He has been earning his grocery money making television commercials and he recently signed to play the part of football great George Gipp in a television movie.

"This is the first time I've ever competed for money—legally, anyway," said Seagren, who won an Olympic Gold Medal pole vaulting in Mexico City in 1968.

Finishing second and collecting $23,400 was ski idol Jean Claude Kilby, who didn't finish first in any event but was a high finisher in ping pong, the 100-yard dash, swimming and the mile-long bicycle race.

Grand Prix race driver Peter Revson, whose pulled leg muscle cost him the bicycle race which settled a battle for second place, wound up in a tie with tennis pro Rod Laver in third place. They got $13,100 each.

Cincinnati Red catcher Johnny Bench, who had a shot at second place in the bicycle race, drew a faulty machine in the qualifying heat and failed to make the final.

Bench finished in fourth place with $7,800.

Seagren's pretty wife Kam, a part-time model who also does television commercials, said they had just picked out a five-bedroom house in the suburbs of Los Angeles and "We can get it now."

While some of the superstars, such as former world heavyweight champ Joe Frazier, didn't seem to take the competition seriously, Seagren said he was going all-out. He didn't get a chance to start practicing until just a week ago, when golfer Gary Player pulled out and Seagren replaced him.

"I have never seen him this nervous," said Mrs. Seagren, 22. "He won a gold medal all right, but this is the first thing he has won for money and he wanted to make a good showing."

Sagren went out and bought a $30 bicycle to practice with when he heard that a mile bike race was one of the 10 events.

Revson said he was in it for the money and he also was going all-out.

Rated Teams Prevail

When there's $10,000 at stake in a bike race, you damn well think about it," said the 32-year-old millionaire.

Revson, the only other among the 10 athletes from a variety of sports to win more than one event, took the tennis and swimming contests. The athletes could not compete in their professional specialties.

Laver was best in ping pong, as expected, and 6-9 Elvin Hayes, the pro basketball star, won the 100-yard dash.

Pro bowler Jim Stefanich won the nine-hole golf tournament and Bench was best in bowling.

Others in order of finish were: Hayes, $7,200; hockey player Rod Gilbert, $5,250, and Stefanich, $5,250.

BASEBALL HITTING
1. Bob Seagren, 8 points, $30,000, 2. (tie) Rod Gilbert and Jim Stefanich, 7, $15,600, 4. (tie) Joe Frazier, John Unifas and Elvin Hayes, 500 $50.

TABLE TENNIS
Finals: Rod Laver beat Jean-Claude Kilby 11-0, semifinalist Billy Beat 21-2, first round, Kilby beat Stefanich 21-13. Unifas beat John Bench 22-20. Seagren beat Hayes 21-10 and Laver beat Gilbert 21-9. Money winners were: Laver, $3,000; Kilby, $2,100; 4. Frazier, $600; 5. Revson, $600; 6. Bench, $300.

100-YARD DASH
1. Hayes, 11.5, $3,000, 2. Kilby, 11.7, $2,100, 3. Laver, 12.8, $1,200, 4. Revson, 12.9, $600, 5. Frazier, 13.5, $300.

Seward's Felix Cited For Defensive Ability

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Too often, it seems, good shooters and high scorers dominate prep basketball headlines.

Although defense gets equal emphasis from most coaches, it usually doesn't get proper recognition in post-game media coverage.

This week's Lincoln Star prep basketball Player of the Week, however, earns the award strictly on the basis of defense.

Seward's Tim Felix, a 6-2, 165-pound senior forward, thrives on defense. But it was never more evident than last week when the Bluejays handed Crete its first basketball loss of the season, 52-46, at Crete.

Felix contributed 11 points to the upset. But his major contribution was holding high-scoring Crete guard Tim Edwards to a season-low five point production.

"He just played right up next to Edwards," said Seward coach

Rod Felix of his son's effort, "and I think got him to taking some shots he might not have wanted."

Coach Felix stresses that good team defense is responsible for good individual defense. This is reflected in Seward statistics.

The Bluejays own the best defensive average in the rugged Central Ten Conference, holding their opponents to right at 50 points a game.

Mike Fritz, Lincoln High—Hit 7 of 11 field goals and contributed excellent rebounding and defense in the Links' 57-48 upset of Lincoln East.

Dan Leininger, York—Senior guard scored a career high 21 points in the Ducks' 74-65 Central Ten Conference win over Ord.

Jamie Sasek, Hebron—His "desperation" shot sent game into overtime then provided winning free throws in third overtime and scored 22 points as Bears outlasted Geneva, 71-69.

John Beck, Louisville—Scored 20 points to spark team's 56-55 come-from-behind upset win over Class D Elwood.

Steve Mann, Bellevue—Six-one senior came off the bench to hit 9 of 12 field goals and two free throws for 20 points and grab seven rebounds as Chieftans upset rated Omaha North, 77-52.

Ted Harvey, Lexington—All-state football quarterback was key man in Minutemen's 72-53 upset at Holdrege. He scored a season high 18 points, including a 12 for 19 free throw performance.

Keith Berg, Pender—Junior forward contributed 22 points and led team's 27-15 fourth quarter spurt which upended Class B Columbus Lakeview, 63-53, in Husker Conference title game.

Lyle Janak, East Butler—Senior frontliner was clutch shooter in scoring 18 points as team outlasted Dorchester, 59-58, in double overtime.

Loren Kilian, Kearney—Six-seven senior center had 22 points in Bearcats' 78-44 upset of Lincoln Southeast. The effort increased his season scoring total to 343 points, two more than Tom Heller's former school record set in 1967.

John Massman, Lincoln Plus X—Hit 12 of his 18 points in the fourth quarter as Thunderbolts defeated David City Aquinas, 62-46.

Jim Carlson, Osceola—His 15-foot jump shot with four seconds remaining and 19 points helped team defeat St. Edward, 55-53.

Kenny Newman, Adams—Hit 10 of 27 field goals and 5 of 6 free throws for 25 points as defending state Class D champions outlasted Elk Creek, 66-62, in overtime. The win allowed Adams to finish Homeheader Conference schedule with 6-0 record.

Park Sidelined

New York (AP) — New York Rangers' defenseman Brad Park will be sidelined for the next two National Hockey League games with a bruised right knee cap, the club said Tuesday.

Charges Denied By Vandenburg

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — Wayne Vandenburg, former track coach at the University of Texas-El Paso, testified Tuesday in his $2.5 million libel suit against Newsweek Magazine that a 1968 article in the weekly made him look like a racist exploiting black athletes.

Vandenburg, fired last November and now employed in public relations work in El Paso, filed the suit in 1968, but it came to trial only Tuesday before a three-man, three-woman jury in Federal District Judge Ernest Guinn's court. Vandenburg was the first witness.

Basis of the suit were two key paragraphs in a nine-page article, carried in Newsweek's July 15, 1968 edition, entitled "The Angry Black Athlete."

The questioned paragraphs said Vandenburg threatened to kick six athletes off the UTEP track team if they joined a boycott of the New York Athletic Club Indoor Meet in Madison Square Garden in February, 1968. The article said the coach "won" and his men competed.

But then, the article said, after the athletes had talked to Harry Edwards, a San Jose State professor, they refused to compete in a meet at Brigham Young University because of the Mormon Church's attitude toward blacks.

The article said Vandenburg then kicked renowned broad jumper Bob Beaman and five other athletes off the squad.

Asked by his attorney if there were any truths in the paragraphs in question, Vandenburg replied:

"None whatsoever."

Vandenburg also testified, "the context of the entire article made me look like a racist coach that exploited black athletes for my own benefit without regard to the athlete's feelings."

The article also mentions "a Southwestern coach" it quoted as saying:

"I could give in to a lot of Negro demands by keeping the team intact, but someone has to hold the line against these people."

Vandenburg contended that "by innuendo it refers to me and I never said it."

Track To Offer 'Men's Day'

Charles Town, W. Va. (AP)—The Charles Town Turf Club is giving a new twist to an old promotional pitch.

Beginning next Tuesday, the eastern West Virginia race track will admit male patrons without charge every Tuesday for the rest of the current meeting.

The track, holding its spring meeting through April 21, will also offer the traditional ladies night each Thursday beginning March 1.

Zev Schwadron, turf club general manager, said, "We figured it was about time to give the men of this country a chance."

Ali Agrees To Fight Netherlands' Champ

Rotterdam (AP) — Rudi Lubbers, heavyweight champion of The Netherlands, signed a contract Tuesday to fight former world champion Muhammad Ali.

The 12-round bout is scheduled for Jakarta, Indonesia, probably in May, but no date was announced.

Kellogg Gains Finals In Omaha Meet

Omaha — Buddy Kellogg, a State Penitentiary Trusty fighting for the Buzz Truax Stable of Lincoln, scored an impressive win over Omaha Walt Mally here Monday night to move into the finals of the heavyweight division in the Omaha City Golden Gloves.

Kellogg will meet Omaha Chuck Anderson for the heavyweight title in an opening round bout at the Omaha Civic Auditorium on March 9-10.

Mally had been favored to win the Omaha City title until he ran into Kellogg in the Monday night semifinals.

Two other Omaha City titles, 147 and 156 pounds, will be decided in opening round action of the Midwest tourney.

Two teammates of Kellogg, also trusties, were defeated

Monday night with Teddy Vaughn decisioning Douglas Montgomery at 165 pounds and Roger Pelster scoring a third round TKO over John Berry.

The trusties were allowed to compete in the Omaha tourney under a Golden Gloves rule which permits boxers to compete either in their home city or the city in which they are attending college.

Monday's results:

NWU Matmen Idle

Orange City, Iowa — Nebraska Wesleyan's dual wrestling meet with Northwestern College, originally scheduled for Wednesday, has been canceled, coach Ron Bachman announced Tuesday.

Fairbury Roars Past Wentworth

FAIRBURY, Neb. (AP)—Fairbury Junior College, purposely benching its first five men, availed Wentworth, Mo., Military 163-52 Tuesday in an Inter-State Junior College Conference basketball game.

Calvin Gross scored 28 and Fletcher Lewis 27 for the Bombers.

Belmonte Hurt But 'Lucky'

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Eddie Belmonte must spend a week to 10 days in the hospital but still must consider himself lucky.

A horse's hoof missed his head and hit him in the thigh.

Belmonte was aboard Autobiography, the handicap champion of the United States in 1972, and one of two thoroughbreds which had to be destroyed Monday at Santa Anita.

Belmonte, the 29-year-old fashion plate from New York's Long Island, was thrown to the dirt when the 5-year-old broke his left front leg.

At the Arcadia Methodist Hospital, an examination of Belmonte showed he suffered from a concussion, a herniotoma on his left thigh and numerous cuts and bruises. But there were no broken bones.

His injuries were serious enough that Dr. Donald Matern said the Puerto Rican-born rider would be hospitalized at least a week.

A spokesman at Santa Anita revealed that Autobiography had been insured for $1 million and Tuqui II for $50,000.

Interest centered on Autobiography, winner of the Jockey Club Gold Cup by 15 lengths last

Prep Quartet Inks NU Letter

Four more high school football seniors were added to the list Tuesday of Big Eight letters-of-intent signees to attend Nebraska.

Included in the latest list is Rocke Senkbeil, a 6-4, 205-pounder from Grand Island, signed by head freshman coach Jim Ross.

Out-of-state players signed were Gary Jeter, a 6-5, 265-pounder from Cleveland, by Bill Myles; Doug Witkus, a 6-6, 235-pounder from Oak Lawn, Ill., by Bob Gates; and Homer Barker, a 6-3, 209 pounder from Denver, by John Melton.

Jeter is a nephew of former Husker tight end star Tony Jeter.

Muny Court To Take Cases From County

By LYNN ZEISCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Beginning March 8, the Lincoln Municipal Court will start handling misdemeanor cases which are now being handled by Lancaster Court.

As a result of City Council action Tuesday, the city attorney's office will process assault and battery, theft and disturbing the peace cases occurring within the city limits. Those cases now are processed by County Court.

Council action providing for the offense of theft and assault and battery brings city ordinances in line with state statute.

Caseload Switch
City Atty. Dick Wood and County Atty. Paul Douglas have estimated that between 25 and 30 complaints now handled by the county will be shifted to the city.

In other action the council placed on pending the application of Modern Methods Inc. for a special permit to build a community unit plan at 7th and Superior.

The Independence, Mo., based firm is proposing to build 120 dwelling units in nine multiple structures on a 17.8-acre tract.

Plan Opposed
Opposition to the plan came from Marilyn Vanderwoude, representing the Northwest Lincoln Community Organization, who said residents of the area are concerned about the design and construction of the plan.

The council placed the application on pending until further information is received on the plot plan, and in particular, the placement of recreation facilities.

In other action the council held public hearings on two changes of zone applications.

Sterling Flott is requesting a zoning change from AA Rural to H-2 Highway Commercial at the I-80 and NW 48th interchange.

Flott is proposing to build a motel-restaurant-service station complex on the northeast and southeast corners of the intersection.

Said Only Site
Attorney Chauncey Barney

contended that Flott had made a survey of all available land between Omaha and Lincoln and found the west Lincoln site to be the only appropriate one.

Additionally, Barney argued that the complex is needed, pointing to Chamber of Commerce figures showing that the city's position as a convention center is declining, as is the number of hotel-motel rooms available in the city.

The City-County Planning Commission has recommended partial approval of the application — denying the zoning change for the northwest corner, while recommending the zoning change be approved for H-S Highway Service on the southeast corner. The highway service zoning district is a more restrictive one than the zoning requested.

The council also held a public hearing on the application of Robert Rentfro and Crawford Pierce for a change of zone from A-1 Single Family to G Local Business at Hwy and Pioneers Blvd. at 32nd.

Professional Building
Attorney John Glynn told the council that the developers plan to build a three-story professional office building with underground parking facilities on the site.

Glynn noted that the office building could be constructed under present zoning, but said the zoning change would allow a better designed and landscaped plan.

The planning commission is recommending approval.

In other action the council:

Ordinances, Third Reading —Approved improvement district for 13th between southline of Arapahoe and northline of Calvert.

—Approved repealing Ord. 10620 for paving district for all that portion of Oakridge Dr. and part of Dogwood Dr., all in Colonial Hills 3rd Add.

—Approved repealing Ord. 10620 for paving district in Elscroft Dr. and LaSalle in Colonial Hills 3rd Add.
—Approved repealing Ord. 10620 in 20th St. Circle located north of Prescott Ave.

—Approved repealing Ord. 10620 in 31st St. Circle north of Prescott Ave.
—Approved water district for six-inch main in C from So. 1st to South 2nd.

—Approved vacating 24th between M and N and that part of 24th lying west of eastline of Lot 3, Brookline Add., extended north, and that part of M from east line of Lot 3 extended north to west line of Lot 1, Brookline Add., extended north.
—Approved vacating that portion of 20th between Van Dorn and Smith.

Resolutions and Public Hearings —Delayed hearing one week on application of Austin Realty for special permit to develop community unit plan at 36th and Pioneers Blvd.
—Approved setting date of hearing for March 5th for application of Argo Development Co. Inc. for C liquor license at 3045 Cornhusker Hwy.

—Ordered constructed Sewer District 327 located in O'Brien Missouri-Pacific RR right-of-way to 500' west.
Ordinances, First Reading
—Creating sewer district in area of NW 12th near Cornhusker Hwy. and I-80.
—Creating sewer district from 8th and Judson to 7th and Superior.
—Creating water district in S from 23rd to 24th.

Approval came in the form of a resolution which gives the administration authority to hire returning personnel. The salary increases will cost the institution some $79,000.

The board also approved low bids for construction of a new dormitory. Fast Construction Co. of Hastings, with a bid of $150,600, was awarded the general construction contract.

66th, Vine Rezoning Rejected

With no discussion the City Council Tuesday unanimously rejected the controversial application of William Spader for a zoning change at 66th and Vine.

The vote was 6 to 0 with Councilman Steve Cook declaring a conflict of interest.

Spader had proposed to build a combination restaurant, professional office building and elderly housing on the site.

The zoning change requested was from A-2 Single Family to G Local Business, from A-2 Single to F Restricted and from A-2 single to D Multiple.

Residents Opposed
The proposal had come under heavy fire from area residents who had contended another shopping area was not needed due to the proximity of other commercial centers.

The Parks and Recreation Board also opposed the application on the grounds that added traffic to the area would constitute a safety hazard to children playing in neighboring Bethany Park.

Both the planning department and City-County Planning Commission had recommended denial of the request.

Decision Stands
In other action the council stood on its original decision made two weeks ago turning down apartments at 70th and Van Dorn, across from Holmes Park.

Gold Crown Inc.'s application to build 182 apartments on the southwest corner of the intersection originally was defeated on Feb. 5. That vote was 4 to 3.

Last Monday, Councilman Harry Peterson said he wanted to reconsider his vote denying the request. With Council chairman Dick Hartsock absent, the council reached a 3 to 3 deadlock. Action then was held over until Tuesday.

Breaking the tie, Hartsock voted against reconsideration of the application.

In the vote two weeks ago, however, Hartsock voted in favor of Gold Crown's application.

Council members Merle Hale and Bob Sikyta joined Peterson in requesting reconsideration, while Dick Baker, Helen Boosalis and Cook joined Hartsock in defeating that move.

CNTC Board Okays Salary Hikes Of 4.9%

Hastings (AP) — The Central Nebraska Technical College board of governors has approved an average salary increase of 4.9% for staff members for the 1973-74 school year.

Approval came in the form of a resolution which gives the administration authority to hire returning personnel. The salary increases will cost the institution some $79,000.

The board also approved low bids for construction of a new dormitory. Fast Construction Co. of Hastings, with a bid of $150,600, was awarded the general construction contract.

This is where shoplifting stops being "fun."

Think how it must feel to get caught.

Think how you'd answer the question that's on every job application, "Have you ever been arrested? If so, explain."

Think how—to the people you know, and the people you love, and yes, even to yourself—you can never be the same person again.

Think about it.

UNL Geologist Is Observing Volcano In Antarctica

Wednesday, Feb. 21, 1973 The Lincoln Star 27

Dr. Samuel B. Treves, professor of geology at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln who is currently on his sixth scientific expedition to the Antarctic, is a member of a team conducting scientific observation of a periodic eruption of Mt. Erebus, an active volcano in Antarctica.

Treves and two colleagues spent five hours on the mountain on Feb. 4. They were landed at 12,000 feet by a U.S. Navy helicopter and climbed 500 feet to the lip of the crater.

The Lincoln geologist reported that most of the time the vent was filled with steam but during clear periods it was possible to see cracks develop in the skin of the magma pool and to observe the red, molten lava.

During their stay at the summit, an ash-rock eruption took place. According to Treves, the first sign of the eruption was a loud roar that continued to grow in volume as a plume of ash and rocks was thrown 400 feet into the air. Some fragments were observed to fall on a remnant of an older lava lake that is situated about 400 feet above the present lava lake.

Dr. Treves and one of his current colleagues, Philip Kyle of Victoria University in New Zealand, carried out geologic collection expeditions on Mt. Erebus in 1970 but there was no lava in the crater at that time.

The volcano was first observed in activity by geologist Robert Falcon Scott some 60 years ago and by James Ross in 1841.

Treves and Kyle are site geologists on a drilling project on Ross Island. The project, called Dry Valley Drilling Project, has been drilling and taking core samples from the island from which geologic specimens are being identified and logged. Such research helps to date and determine the geologic history and morphology of the area.

After drilling to a depth of 200 meters (about 650 feet), Treves noted that there is still permafrost. These permafrost temperatures of less than 0 degrees centigrade, may extend to depths as great as 400 meters.

Air Unit Property Post OKd

The Lincoln Airport Authority Tuesday decided to hire a property director to oversee management of Lincoln Air Park West (LAPW).

The property director would assist Executive Director Rolland Harr, who now manages LAPW plus managing other airport operations.

Board member Robert Phillips presented a committee report calling for the new position. He said that present airport development plans for constructing the new terminal and taxiways would be "impossible without the current income from Lincoln Air Park West."

Phillips praised Harr for being responsible for the development and administration of LAPW.

However, Phillips said, the workload is increasing as a result of new safety regulations and terminal construction which has reduced the time available for managing LAPW.

He said the property director should be experienced in industrial real estate, sales, rentals and management.

In other business, one of the airport's security officers requested a pay increase for the four guards now on duty at the airport.

Robert Coleman said that with the implementation of tightened security measures at the airport, the men are subjected to increased danger.

He noted that the men are now receiving $2.40 an hour — way below the wages paid to other law enforcement personnel.

The Authority said it would take the request under advisement. In further business Frontier Airlines reported a 6.7% increase in passengers during January compared to January a year ago. United reported a 3.2% increase while Trans-Nebraska reported a 15.8% increase in the number of passengers handled in January over one year ago.

Israelis Hit North Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli troops launched their deepest-ever ground raid into Lebanon early Wednesday, striking at Arab terrorist bases in the far north of the country, the military announced.

The attack by land, sea and airborne forces carried the Israelis to the Syrian-Lebanese border 112 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese frontier, a spokesman said.

"Dozens of guerrillas were killed," and six Israelis were wounded, four of them only slightly, he claimed.

Police in Beirut, Lebanon, said helicopter-borne Israeli forces attacked a guerrilla base near the Nahr al Bared refugee camp 80 miles north of the capital near the Syrian border. The camp is a stronghold of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an extremist group connected with last May's massacre at Lod Airport in Tel Aviv.

Capitol Repair Planned on 'Steady Basis'

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon and the State Building Commission assured Sen. Terry Carpenter Tuesday that repair and maintenance of the State Capitol is sufficiently funded and that work will proceed "not on a crash basis but a steady basis."

Exon said the $716,000 which he has requested for the Capitol building over the next three years represents a 50% jump in the level of expenditures over what had been done in the past 12 years.

All funds appropriated for the maintenance of the building will be spent by July 1, 1973, Exon said.

Age Of Building
Commission member and architect Linus Burr Smith commented that the nature of the building and the need for new technology are the major reasons for leading roofs, discolored stone and settling. Money is not the problem, commission members agreed.

Carpenter appeared before the commission to represent the Legislature's Executive Board, which had been concerned over the physical deterioration of the Capitol.

The meeting did prompt the commission to look into completely air-conditioning the Capitol, since variations in temperature cause the limestone to contract, resulting in cracks. With some notable pockets, the Capitol is currently air-conditioned up to the 13th floor in the 400-foot tower.

Estimate Sought
The commission agreed to contact the Leo Daly Co. of Omaha for estimates on the air-conditioning job.

Carpenter added, "The governor of this state ... ought to make a survey of the building and go to the Legislature and say this and this and this needs to be done."

"You shouldn't wait a minute. Put the monkey on our back. The cost shouldn't matter."

Exon responded, "We're now attacking things that have been let go for years. I don't think if we appropriated $2 million we could completely solve all the problems."

Caution Urged
Smith, former dean of UNL's Architecture School, tried to impress upon Carpenter the care which must be taken in fixing the building, which was completed in 1932.

Drinking Rising
Washington — New Zealanders bought 70,154 gallons of U.S. bourbon in 1971, compared with 1,837 gallons in 1961.

Among the problems is the absence expansion joints, Smith said. Consequently, due to the "Russian winters and Italian summers" of Nebraska, one wall has moved four inches.

"The New York architects weren't aware of our climate extremes," Smith said.

Then there is the difficulty in tracing leaks due to the size of the building and the different roofs. "From the first day of occupancy dripping water has been a problem for the offices under the terraces," he said. Taking an implied swipe at Carpenter's idea to convert the balconies around the courtyards into senators' offices, Smith said efforts to prevent "selfish takeovers" of the structure have been "a constant task."

Omaha Council Bill Pulled Back

Wednesday, Feb. 21, 1973 The Lincoln Star 29

By United Press International
The Unicameral will have another chance, possibly next week, to vote on the matter of district elections for members of the Omaha City Council.

The second chance at a final vote followed a series of parliamentary maneuvers engineered Tuesday by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff relative to the district elections bill authored by Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha.

Technically, the Legislature voted to pull LB12 back from the governor's desk where it apparently was awaiting an uncertain fate.

The reason for the return was to amend the bill so that it would, in fact, require council elections by district, rather than at large, beginning in 1977.

Senators Reject Four-Day Week

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Legislature rejected Tuesday a proposal to go on a four-day week starting March 5.

The motion by Sen. Terry Carpenter to drop formal Friday sessions received an 18-18 tie vote, but 25 approving votes would have been needed.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker and others contended that absenteeism on Fridays limits the Unicameral's work, that many lawmakers have work in their home areas which need attention, and that diligent work Mondays through Thursday would accomplish as much.

Frustrated in his move, Carpenter then proposed that senators be excused on Friday only for sickness. The proposal was referred to the Rules Committee.

Carpenter said because the bill was specifically written for the 1973 elections, it "obviously could not be adopted" without amending the dates out of the measure.

Also, Gov. J. J. Exon originally said he was going to sign the bill as soon as it reached his desk. But it has been sitting there since its passage.

The vote to return the bill was 26-5. The Carpenter corrective amendments were then adopted 26-1. Sen. Glenn Goodrich of

Proceedings Questioned
Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha questioned the proceedings. He said the decision on the fate of the bill should be left to Exon rather than the Legislature since it has already acted once.

Chambers replied that he talked with the governor and reported that Exon was "more than anxious" to return the bill for amendments.

The measure, however, would not represent a final decision on the matter.

Fred Jacobberger, an Omaha city councilman, has promised that a suit would be filed challenging the authority of the Legislature to overrule a home rule charter.

In addition to requiring district elections, the Chambers' bill would increase the size of the council from seven to 12.

State Senators Refuse To Prohibit Live Cablecast Of ERA Hearing

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Legislature refused Tuesday to prohibit Lincoln's cable television firm from live transmission of Thursday's scheduled public hearing on the controversial Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

The motion by Sen. Harold Simpson of Lincoln to exclude T-V Transmission, Inc., from a live cablecast from the main legislative chamber in which the hearing will be held was turned down 28-7.

Simpson contended a private firm whose service is sold to a limited audience for a profit should not be permitted to exploit the hearing.

But several senators arose to note that legislative rules provide for no closed sessions and the ERA issue deserves the widest coverage.

The Thursday hearing on a resolution withdrawing Nebraska's 1972 ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment will be conducted by the Unicameral's Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee.

T-V Transmission, Inc., is associated with the Lincoln Telephone & Telegraph Co. It relays via telephone lines telecasts of commercial TV stations, but also originates some programs.

Voting in favor of Simpson's exclusion motion, in addition to Simpson, were Sens. Wally Barnett and Roland Luedtke, both of Lincoln; Otto Kime of Valentine, Maurice Kremer of Aurora, Duke Snyder of Omaha and J. James Waldron of Callaway. Barnett suggested that if lawmakers are going to be subjected to continual television programming "they better give us dressing rooms and provide us with makeup experts."

But Sen. John W. DeCamp of Neligh noted that ERA is "a pretty hot issue," widely misunderstood, and "the solution is to get as many people informed as to the true facts as we possibly can."

Contracts Up 8%

Washington — Wage-rate increases in major collective-bargaining settlements during 1971 averaged 8.1% over the life of the contract, down from the 8.9% average gain in 1970, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports. Settlements in 1971 covered nearly 35 million workers.

Where's the fire?

If there's a fire in your town, you'd want a full report on it wouldn't you? And, when it comes to reporting fires and other local happenings, most people turn to their local newspaper for the news.

Your local newspaper's prime function is to present the news—with strong emphasis on local news.

That's why eight out of ten adults read a newspaper every day. No other news source can match local newspapers for speedy, thorough saturation of a community.

Local newspapers deliver massive coverage to people of all ages. 80% of all men and women read a newspaper every week. And the figures are almost as high for teen-agers—7 out of 10 (ages 12-20) read a newspaper every week.

Where's the fire? Who's the proud new parents? Who got married? All of these, and more, are reported in your local newspaper every week. And who wants to know? You do—with a full report.

Revenue Sharing Funds Use To Save State Programs Eyed

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly Tuesday suggested that the top priority for federal revenue sharing funds may be to support continuing state programs which are experiencing a reduction in federal funding.

With that thought in mind, Warner has directed the Education Committee's staff to review and identify all programs whose federal support is being cut.

The committee is considering a bill, LB109, which would allocate $8,650,000 in federal revenue sharing funds to specific new projects.

In order to act wisely on that bill, Warner said, the staff survey will present the committee with alternative use of the funds.

Some $28.8 million in federal revenue sharing funds will be available for use by state government prior to the conclusion of the 1973-74 fiscal year, according to information presented by the Appropriations Committee.

Warner said his first personal preference for use of the funds would be to provide local property tax relief through increased state aid to schools.

(The federal revenue sharing funds would not be used directly for that purpose, but they could free state general fund money for such use.)

Warner said a number of state programs now appear to be in fiscal trouble because "federal funding may not be available at the level projected" in budget requests.

"Some of those programs can properly be phased out," he said. "But some should not. I think we should determine whether any of the federal revenue sharing money should be used for those programs first."

Saving Programs
"We may need to devote first priority to saving those programs that might otherwise need to be discontinued."

Warner said senators may also wish to consider using the revenue sharing funds for discontinued federal programs, particularly in the field of conservation.

"But we better look first at the on-going state programs," he suggested.

LB109, sponsored by Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice, would allocate $1 million for the purchase of books at the University of Nebraska's Love Library; $5.9 million for a new NU life sciences building in Lincoln, and $1,750,000 for a new Men's Reformatory.

Legislature Can Erect State Office Building

By United Press International
The attorney general held Tuesday that the Legislature could, if it wants, step in and build a state office building in spite of the wishes of the governor.

Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer noted a major argument against such action is that the Legislature has only the power to legislate while the governor has all executive authority.

But, Meyer said, in the case of an office building the Legislature has a direct interest in that it would take care of space needs of the Unicameral.

Within Principle
"Even if this were held to be a non-legislative function, we think that the building of a building comes within the principle that the Legislature may properly engage in the discharge of such functions to the extent that their performance is reasonably incidental to the full and effective exercise of legislative powers," the attorney general said.

He also said in the opinion, requested by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, that construction includes two phases — the preparation of plans and the letting of a contract.

Both of those, Meyer said, come within the business experience of the Legislature.

"These are functions which the Legislature itself carries out every day in order to take care of its needs," he said, concluding "we see no reason why it cannot also carry on these two functions with respect to a building which it needs for its purposes."

To Oversee Project
However, the attorney general said, in order to handle the situation, it would be necessary to "select some permanent officer, employee or committee" to oversee such a project.

Carpenter, after the opinion was read into the record, noted there is a bill pending, LB447, which could be used as a vehicle to construct the building.

The state already owns the land for the office building. It was gained after a lease-purchase arrangement with the city of Lincoln fell through two years ago.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Now, U.S. Savings Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 30 months. If, the first year, Bonds are repurchased at full value and when needed they can be cashed at face value. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

'Hard Look' At LB96 Urged By Labor Leader

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

State AFL-CIO President William Brennan of Omaha has written all state senators asking them to "take a hard cold look" when they consider a motion to revive a bill authorizing agency shop labor contracts in Nebraska.

The bill, LB96, was killed by the Labor Committee on a 5-2 vote.

Its sponsor, Harold Simpson of Lincoln, is scheduled to seek revival of the proposal on the floor Wednesday.

LB96 is supported by organized labor, and was sharply opposed at its public hearing by spokesmen for business and industry.

Service Fee
"Deletion of the present ban (on agency shop agreements) would make it legal for an employer and a union to sign a contract allowing a service fee to be charged of non-union workers covered in all other phases of the contract," Brennan wrote senators.

"Federal law demands that non-union workers covered by a union contract receive all of the benefits won in negotiations for the union employee.

"Federal law also demands that the union represent the non-union worker in all other matters covered by the union contract.

'Not Fair'
We do not think it is fair when federal law demands that we spend members' dues to represent non-members and Nebraska law prohibits us from charging a fee for these services."

Senators should remember that "only employees of firms with union contracts are affected by this bill," Brennan noted.

"Please keep in mind that a charge is made only when and if the employer and the majority of the employees agree to a fee."

Agency shop agreements, in which a fee may be required from non-union members, differ from closed shop agreements in which all employees must join a union.

'Right To Work'

Union shop agreements are banned by the state constitution in the so-called "right to work" law.

"We've had that law for 27 years," Brennan noted in an interview. "It was supposed to bring industry to the state to the point where the state might sink from the weight of it."

All right-to-work states, with the exception of Nevada, have experienced "a steadily declining average income in comparison with other states," Brennan said. "I wonder how you measure success."

Brennan said many chambers of commerce in Nebraska sell industry on "cheap labor." When new industries do enter a community, he said, they often "pay a man $80 a week" while costing the community in terms of land gifts, tax breaks or municipal services.

'Profit Leaves'

"They take a product produced at $1.60 an hour and market it elsewhere. The excess profit leaves the state.

"Now, tell me, what has the chamber done to help that small town?"

Many Nebraskans are willing to "pay a young man $1.60 an hour and then wonder why he leaves town," Brennan said. If he stays, he cannot afford to buy steaks or other quality products from local merchants, he suggested.

"There's a cement plant in Superior now that pays in the area of $4 an hour as a starting wage. People should ask those merchants whether they have anything against unions."

Ed Committee Rejects Class Preparation Bill

By The Associated Press
The Legislature's Education Committee said "no" Tuesday to a proposed law guaranteeing public school teachers in Nebraska 50 minutes a day for class preparation.

The bill involved, Omaha Sen. Duke Snyder's LB386, was killed on a 5-2 vote.

Spokesmen for both teachers and administrators concurred in the desirability of planning time, and said some already is allowed.

But Loren Brakenhoff, representing the Council of School Administrators, said the cost of paying salaries of teachers for 50 minutes of planning time each day has been calculated at more than $9.7 million statewide. The council believes that the cost of any school requirement written into state law should be funded also by the state, he said.

The committee also gave hearing to LB370, an Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers bill guaranteeing each public school teacher access to his or her personnel file, and allowing teachers to attach written responses to any adverse information in them.

The bill was held for later disposition at the request of Sen. Steve Fowler of Lincoln, who said he wished to ascertain what confidentiality present laws provide.

The committee heard and sent to the floor a Fremont Sen. E. Thome Johnson bill making discretionary, rather than mandatory, an elementary school coordinator for Class VI school districts.

A bill calling for abolition of rural elementary teacher certificates, Omaha Sen. John Savage's LB407, was killed 6-1.

Bills Introduced

By The Associated Press
Bills introduced in the Legislature Tuesday:

LB489 (Public Works Committee)—Provides that Department of Transportation collect fees on nonresident vehicles.

LB490 (Public Works Committee)—Requires annual permits for advertising signs within 600 feet of interstate or primary highways.

LB491 (Public Works Committee)—Exempts certain combines and vehicles transporting grain from local and highway weight limits.

LB492 (Retirement Systems Committee)—Exempts from state retirement system membership those former employees who have withdrawn their retirement funds but return to temporary employment.

Bills Passed

LB34 — Harmonizes provisions of municipal law to exempt officers and members of appointed boards and commissions from conflict of interest in contracts of up to $10,000.

LB107 — Eliminates a requirement that natural resource districts be performed only by "certified" public accountants.

LB410 — Abolishes the floodway obstruction removal fund and grants Natural Resources Commission control over certain lands and rights-of-way.

LB191 — Provides compensation for witnesses by the state or political subdivision outside the employee's home county.

LB192 — Permits transcribing the proceedings in the Nebraska Workmen's Compensation Court.

Mental Health Care Proposal Opposed

By United Press International
The director of the State Institutions Department said Tuesday if the state were to pay all care costs for the mentally ill then the community mental health center concept would fall apart.

"This would act against development of community mental health centers," said Dr. Jack Anderson during a hearing before the Legislature's Health and Welfare Committee on Omaha Sen. David Stahmer's LB361.

The bill, which was held by the committee, would shift all care costs over to the state instead of having the counties participate for up to 25% of the costs.

The counties, Anderson said, would have no incentive to use or help develop the community centers under such a program. The community center concept, he noted, promises to be a cost-saver, but only if it is used.

Another bill held, LB375,

Committee Okays EOC Bills

A pair of bills extending the authority of the State Equal Opportunity Commission (EOC) won approval Tuesday from the Legislature's Labor Committee.

Advanced to the floor were LB265, providing EOC jurisdiction over firms with 15 employees rather than the current minimum of 25, and LB266, outlawing employment discrimination against handicapped persons.

LB265 would put Nebraska in line with the federal anti-would allow county boards of mental health to commit patients to community mental health centers as well as to regional centers.

That measure was introduced discrimination standards, which were lowered last year from 25 employees to 15. Should the measure fail on the floor, the federal government would then have authority over alleged discrimination in businesses with 15 to 24 workers.

LB266 was supported at a public hearing by a number of disabled and handicapped persons who told of numerous instances of discrimination by employers because of their various handicaps.

The committee killed LB262, which would have removed the state of Nebraska from the law enforced by the EOC which prohibits discrimination in employment.

LB265 would put Nebraska in line with the federal anti-punishment bill along the lines of the high court directive.

LB268 permits capital punishment for premeditated murder committed during a rape, arson, robbery, burglary, kidnapping, or hijacking. A jury would determine guilt or innocence, and a judge or panel of judges would then decide separately whether to impose the death penalty.

Death Penalty Bill Advances

The Legislature Tuesday was offered a chance to reinstate capital punishment in Nebraska when the Judiciary Committee sent to the floor a death penalty bill written by Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer.

The bill, LB268, was sent to the floor on a 5-2 vote.

Already on the floor is LB146, Omaha Sen. Ernest Chambers' bill to erase capital punishment from the state's lawbooks.

The U.S. Supreme Court last year struck down capital punishment as it was being administered across the nation, and Meyer told the committee last week LB268 represents an attempt to draw a capital punishment bill along the lines of the high court directive.

LB268 permits capital punishment for premeditated murder committed during a rape, arson, robbery, burglary, kidnapping, or hijacking. A jury would determine guilt or innocence, and a judge or panel of judges would then decide separately whether to impose the death penalty.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY: Cooperation Important In Battling Inflation

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

The battle against inflation would offer more promise of success if President Nixon and Congress would cooperate rather than confront each other.

Obviously any kind of row is news, but more is at stake than whether the executive department can outfox the legislative branch.

The simple fact which partitions of special projects sentimentally overlook is that inflation is influenced by arithmetic — by the totality of government spending in relation to tax receipts — not by the quality of individual spending schemes.

Even the strongest bridge has a maximum capacity, and, unless "doing good" is related to disciplined and balanced policies, the public is harmed by chronic monetary erosion.

More Honored In Breach

Self-evident as these principles should be, they are today more honored in the breach than in the observance. For example, the chairman of the New York City Planning Commission waits that in impounding funds for housing subsidies President Nixon is acting "irresponsibly."

From the standpoint of supporting the buying power of the dollar, there can be little quarrel with the conclusion that a ceiling on government spending (relative to tax receipts) is desirable.

Honest men can disagree as to how high the ceiling should be. This columnist is of the opinion that the limitation proposed by the administration is on the high side.

Once the policy of a ceiling has been agreed upon, there can be legitimate differences as to what the priorities should be in cutting expenditures. For example, some will object to curtailment of social schemes while defense appropriations after a period of relative declines are again rising.

Undue Dilution

Similarly on the constitutional issue, raised by Senator Erwin of North Carolina, there is merit in the effort to avert undue dilution of congressional control over the pursestrings. Instead of defaulting on this responsibility and creating a vacuum of a congressional inaction into which the executive steps, it would be better if the national legislature implemented current proposals to create personnel and procedures for appraising the budget as a whole instead of treating it piecemeal item by item.

But, if the Congress continues to drag its feet, should President Nixon match congressional fiscal irresponsibility with executive irresponsibility? This question cannot be discussed leisurely in the ivory tower, since the business recovery phase brings into practical focus whether sustainable prosperity is to collapse in face of an outburst of unbridled inflation. This issue comes at a time when many U.S. products have already been priced out of global markets, with a resultant disappearance of our traditional favorable balance of trade.

Passing social statutes which promise the moon is no substitute for pursuing the economic disciplines which produce better living standards. The President can make a lasting contribution if he stands steadfast in reaffirming the philosophy of individual in-

WHAT EQUIPMENT SHOULD BE USED IN A HEARING TEST?

The hearing test is performed using an audiometer, a kind of "sound generator," which produces a series of tones, in varying frequencies and intensities, through ear phones worn by the person being tested.

The audiometric results usually indicate the type and extent of the hearing loss. There is an additional instrument used to determine what type of hearing aid is best suited to the individual. This instrument duplicates the performance of different types of aids, tone adjustments, and other fitting refinements, without the necessity of trial periods.

So. Sioux City Is Hit By Blaze

South Sioux City (AP) — Fire ravaged a quarter-block section in South Sioux City Tuesday night.

It went out of control in the Crest Theater and burned in several nearby businesses. Heavy smoke and water damage resulted in adjacent structures. No injuries were reported, but two women in an apartment over the theater were removed by firemen. The women were identified as Mrs. A. R. Thacker and Mrs. Etta T. Smith, who is 97 years old.

Mrs. Smith was carried from the apartment.

Firemen said the blaze started in the theater, which was not open at the time. It has a seating capacity of 550, and is owned by R. D. Thacker Sr. of South Sioux City.

The Midway Bar, north of the theater, was evacuated. Windows in the bar were blown out, as were windows in a grocery and jewelry store. The Four Seasons Salon of Beauty and a vacant building that formerly housed Rosemary's Boutique, are all in the same block.

Also sustaining smoke and water damage was a structure to the rear of the tavern. It was leased to Family Service of Dakota County.

There also was heavy smoke damage to a house at the rear of the theater. Firemen from South Sioux City were dispatched to the scene at 4:47 p.m. Soon after they requested assistance from Dakota County and Homer departments.

Assistance came from Sioux City.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 2-21
